Thread: CRAXS VS G700

elritmodelacumbia - December 21, 2024, 2:29 pm

Hi guys, I am very new, Im raw

I want to install rats in apks to get seedphrases and also to move money from banks.. Is this possible with those rats or just a fantasy?

Also, I want to be able to control the victims phone.. can this be done? without the person knowing im controlling , like black screen...

Craxs or g700?

Thanks

Total fantasy. I think Dyne posted an explanation of how HVNC is impossible on Android, but of course all his posts have been deleted. These pieces of junk will probably hardly run on current Android devices to say nothing of hijacking banking apps.

And spreading malicious APKs will be awful.

G700 is a fork from Craxsrat 7.8. G700 has been kept more up to date then craxsrat 7.8.

Ledear_dev has done alot of work on G700. With G700, its invisible, there is no black screen. However when attempting to take crypto it has a series of pages that match the user interface of other app login pages. So from the owners perspective it feels like their finger accidentally tapped the crypto app open. From there it saves the password and opens the crypto app.

You could from there then use G700 to extract the crypto from the crypto app at that point but i would recommend against it for moral sake.
