

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: The devil and Human as in one - Personal Thought

Spam Assassin - December 24, 2024, 7:55 am

What if the Goat/Sheep is the devil and the human the angle, Jesus the son of God and the Sheep the devil he gazed in the fields.

Taking goat/sheep/chicken/birds/deer and anything that is at the end of the food chain but are living flesh are just one mind in the Hive with millions of Lives and one brain, but with no words to explain us except who are in the prison held by the Karma - like the Tiger, Lion, Wolves, Eagle etc and maybe this is why Lions and Tigers are at the end of their kind, maybe brave kings and people who were true while committed to their crime were brave and karma are just sending in Wolves and Vultures because we have armies these days who have packs and cunning minds and not bravehearts while they commit a crime. Maybe...

The Hive is the devil, the men are onces who did good on their prison years being a wolf, lion, tiger or anyone being on top of the food chain, given another chance in their life cycle.

The Hive has infinite lives with memories shared by each, it dies everyday for humans or prisoners of Karma, for its meat to be served. Any animal who can't speak but gets devoured is the devil, not the tiger who is in Prison for his deeds.

The devil has infinite life and watches you everyday, and yet we humans feel bad when they die, we look into their eye and they still give that eye that forgive us just like the sheep gave the eye to Jesus!

It knows we need it as it's our chain and forgive it, yet we devoured it and a % of it is into our brain and body and the devil get inside us, somehow, that sadness, or that cruelty that we don't care but it is still inside us, as we watched as a memory.

The goat, the sheep, the chicken, the birds, all acknowledged, we see in their eyes happy for us, they were happy for us, although when a human dies, it's not laughing while in its death, I had puppies in my arms die, laughed while its death but men is never in a happy state, don't know why! But maybe I know but I don't want to acknowledge, maybe!

How the devil is helping us do the crime as it laughing at the end of it.

I am not sure where I will end with this though, I will try to write as I wrote this in my diary, and continue this thread, maybe, I don't know, just a thought came today so I posted it. Only if it comes ever again!

I will try to clearly to take and acknowledge this truth and not live with a hidden heart and approach everything with clearing my fear and having accepted into my own mind.

Sorry if the thought doesn't match with others, I am just having a personal argument with myself and thought to share this online after writing it on my diary as I don't know if I will have this answer anytime soon.

