

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Is There a Windows 11 Widget to Control Matter Devices?

XtremeDiscount - December 29, 2024, 7:40 pm

Hey HF Community,

With smart home devices becoming more standardized under the Matter protocol, I was wondering if anyone knows if Windows 11 has (or is planning to have) a widget or feature to control Matter devices directly?

It would be awesome to manage smart lights, thermostats, or other Matter-compatible devices right from the desktop.

Has anyone seen any updates or announcements about this?
Are there third-party apps or tools for Windows 11 that offer this functionality?
Maybe there's a hidden feature or workaround?

I feel like this could be a huge productivity booster for smart home enthusiasts. Let me know what you all think or if you've come across anything useful!

Looking forward to hearing your thoughts and suggestions! ?

DramaKing - December 30, 2024, 9:19 am

(Dec 29, 2024 08:40 PM)Computer1050 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hey HF Community,

With smart home devices becoming more standardized under the Matter protocol, I was wondering if anyone knows if Windows 11 has (or is planning to have) a widget or feature to control Matter devices directly?

It would be awesome to manage smart lights, thermostats, or other Matter-compatible devices right from the desktop.

Has anyone seen any updates or announcements about this?
Are there third-party apps or tools for Windows 11 that offer this functionality?
Maybe there's a hidden feature or workaround?

I feel like this could be a huge productivity booster for smart home enthusiasts. Let me know what you all think or if you've come across anything useful!

Looking forward to hearing your thoughts and suggestions! ?

There may be first-party apps. You'll have to check with the device manufacturer(s). If you don't already have a hub, then it's going to be a rabbit hole.