Thread: Reasons why people addicted to hack forums

kinnu543 - January 1, 2025, 6:37 pm

I came across many forums in internet but I am addicted to hackforums because

- All sections and topics covered
- Benefit to users for posting content
- Contract system for smooth exchanges
- Contest to check our luck
- Gambling
- Currency exchange section
- Earning from attachments in money section.

Ain't any other forum that better than HF

Deany - January 1, 2025, 6:38 pm

Meh I wouldn't say addicted , but rather a good resource like you said currency exchange section

Spam Assassin - January 1, 2025, 6:42 pm

IMO it's the bytes and the awards. I was not until the Christmas award goal fight, still trying for the QL Award!

Yes it's a good resource for smooth exchanges

Pr0m3th3us - January 1, 2025, 6:43 pm

Addicted...no. A good resource, yes. As with anything it has its upsides and downsides.

For me, I learned a lot of my cybersecurity groundwork here.

After that, I found you can get some pretty good products that are discounted off MSRP's.

In the beginning, these attracted me to hackforums. In the end, I just browse for fun. I'm not making a penny off this site, and largely, I enjoy seeing the same people from years past, still having the same opinions and doing the same goofy things.

Truly for me, hackforums is nostalgic.

kileyvolkm - January 1, 2025, 10:28 pm

I wouldn't say it is addict, just a good place to spread knowledge without too much fluff

Cheap server hosting (sometimes)

Gift cards (usually)

Services like spotify, discord nitro, netflix and whatever else (usually)

Crypto without exchanges

Just little things here and there. Not always relevant, also easy to get jipped too, gotta be careful out there.

The Pact - January 2, 2025, 8:37 pm

It's possible to make money from Hack Forums even if it's only small amounts it's a bit of extra money which makes everything more addictive.

I have had a problem with message board addiction since like maybe 1995.?

I'm The Pact and I'm a messageboardaholic. ? In 2003 I became seriously addicted to a toxic message board and that lasted for a great many years and then I was addicted to spin off message boards from that original toxic message board and I seem to have transfered from that to Hack Forums in like maybe 2021? Although I have been on HF since 2012. I always thought because I read the Help Documents that I'd never get banned from HF, but Omni did ban me for a year after the rep purge for complaining about the Rep Purge I think. I have not been continuously addicted to HF since 2012 it comes and goes as an addiction. Spamming for awards is a time sink that I've done twice with the green pumpkin and the much more attractive new Christmas ornament.

There has always been some message board I was addicted to since 1995, except in 1995 it was more live chat I was addicted to, but now I find live chats to be very boring since people never stay on topic, or really pay attention to each other and just make their own random comments. Right now it's Hack Forums and Reddit. Reddit has plenty to get addicted to on it. ?

I keep uninstalling Reddit from my phone and then reinstalling it.

don't get me started on this topic

figghiozzu - January 3, 2025, 2:41 am

I also joined HF for many of the same reasons as you. I can find most of the things I need, there's a great community, and I especially like how contracts and everything related are managed. I can't do without it, and lately, I've also been playing a lot of games on HackGames.

Total Addict.

I stopped and then convinced myself I would be okay just a little HF now and then.

Now I'm back with it running through my veins. I can't help it.

I lost my wife, my home and sold my shoes to fund the habit.

Im just kidding, but still an addict.

But I don't see HF as a toxic board for you nor anyone else. Its a place some of us actually call home now. And since your here since 2012, be proud of that fact and stay strong on your course.
