I have done a quick test using a name I have used before.

I must say a few things I like is this is credit based and not monthly based like many alternatives.

Which is useful especially when you not constantly searching as monthly can often be a waste. The user seems very helpful and of good nature and the database collections and the way if delivers via txt output is great.

TBH, I will actually be using this service. Glad to see something working well like this being advertised on HackForums @DramaKing@ might be interested in confirming this works.

I recommend him to vouch also @-Nightingale-@ if you need reviews

After testing the product, it looks great. As 7 stated, it is easier to use because it uses credits instead of being subscription-based, which I agree with. I am not searching for information 24/7, so this helps me a lot.

I tried searching a few names and emails, and it found some information about them, which is great; the tool is also very fast.

Compared to other tools, this seems the simplest and cheapest to use, so I will be using this tool.

Thank you for the vouch copy; great product.

This seems interesting. Review seem to be good as well.

Does it offer data from all countries or just US?

It offers data from millions of databases that have been collected for a while, any leaks/breaches etc. it's like haveibeenpwnd but you can search anything almost and see the results there password and more data. I would highly recommend it ?

Is it updated with new data regularly? I'm looking for a specific breach that was published about a week ago.

I'm also interested in a vouch copy :)
