Thread: Got a blackmail email in my spam folder. NSFW thread

The Pact - January 6, 2025, 6:52 pm

NSFW thread.

OK so if you don't like talk of obscene stuff don't read this thread.....

So, I don't know if it's a good idea to copy paste the contents of an email I got in my spam folder here, or not? Because I don't want to give any bad actors a thread to copy though I'd love to share this bullshit to the good guys here....so I dunno? But anyway.

These sort of emails make me laugh because thank God I'm a woman, so when I get an email telling me I've been very careless clicking links [which I'm pretty careful not to do duh,] and streaming porn, and was caught masturbating in front of computer by a hacker I just laugh my ass off because I don't stream porn, and I'm a girl, so I just read naughty stories and if I pleasure myself it's under a quilt with a vibrator, so NO you didn't turn my camera on and video explicit images of me, that you will share with all my contacts. ?

And this letter is so detailed about how they have EVERYTHING on you and yet the email doesn't mention your first name. ???

So, apparently I have to hand over $866 US via crypto only within 50 hours, or they will share images of me [that they turned on my camera to get] with all my contacts. Except that I'm not a guy and never streamed porn and never did anything without a quilt over me. ???

The email is so threatening and mean though. Should I share it or not?

Syndicate - January 6, 2025, 6:54 pm

That's fucking hilarious, I'm pretty sure I got the exact same email on my personal account. I was more shocked that it was found by a scammer

F4tDoinkz - January 6, 2025, 6:58 pm

I get that same exact email in my Gmail account multiple times a week. I laugh. Like oh? If you really did go ahead show everyone. Not gonna scar me or even a lot of them. Hell maybe they will be impressed. Of course my family will be forever scarred but I mean oh well.

They are so lazy though that they don't even try to code the form letter with a first name from the email address. Although that doesn't work with my main email anyway because my email address doesn't have my name in it so when other scammers do that it just reads funny as well.

I guess these are very common, but man the wording is SO mean and threatening. I do feel bad for any really young or old, or mentally impaired guys who fall for this. Yikes!

This is common...and in my state there was a 19 year old kid like 3 or 4 years ago that some guy hacked his computer and screen recorded him and used his camera to record him jacking it to porn. The kid killed himself but he had wealthy parents that paid the FBI to go to Africa and extradite the guys to my state to face charges.

So, in some cases they really go hack and screw with people.

On my laptop I have a piece of paper covering my camera and I have the camera disabled. I don't use it and haven't used it since college. In college had to use zoom and skype to do team projects to give a presentation online to my class as a project.

Bastille - January 6, 2025, 7:44 pm

Based on these emails, I'm wanted by Interpol ?

I've worked for many years in a helpdesk and handled a few tickets about these kinds of requests from panicked users. I can tell you (based on the logs/monitoring) that some users don't strictly use their work computers for work ?. So, I can understand how they sometimes fall for it and end up paying, unfortunately LMAO!! I doubt you're a woman. ?

Pr0m3th3us - January 6, 2025, 7:52 pm

if someone manages to get images of me jerking off at my computer I would legitimately get a tattoo of said image then send it to all of my contacts (including relatives). My family is fucked up man...

Foxy Proxies Ltd - January 6, 2025, 7:55 pm

Yeah, I've received these as well. With the same exact bullshit in it. Its just a copy/pasted email some idiot wrote then every wannabe extortionist tries to use. They don't even come up with original shit. They are so lazy all they can do is copy/paste someone else's bullshit scribbling.

Yeah a lot of people don't realise the whole Amanda Todd thing had some hacking involved by Aydin Coban although yes he did get a 12 year old to flash him in a chat room, but he also hacked her some later in attempts to extort more CP from her.

But usually you can assume the absolute minimum effort has been put in and it's not even a hacker just a copy paste.

I guess this is even more common than I knew though because this is only the second time I've personally ever gotten one of these.

It's common.. my dad got it.. my sisters got it. I got emails of this type and text messages. I got messages on facebook of hot women asking me to send them a video of me naked...showing my dick and face to them. I said ok...then downloaded gay porn and send it to them.

SIM-2502833 - January 6, 2025, 8:44 pm

Yeah, they caught me too. Damn indians.

Foxy Proxies Ltd - January 6, 2025, 8:54 pm

I wonder how many people actually fall for this shit and pay up? Are they actually that worried about choking the chicken and getting caught?

The Joker - January 6, 2025, 9:26 pm

I wish someone actually hacked my PC and shared my pics with my contacts. Saves the time & effort of sending dic* pics to random people myself. Lol.

*JK. I don't do that.

The sad part is, they actually get people.

Yeah imagine being 12 or 14 and getting that if you're a naive kid or imagine your a 70 year old man that knows extremely little about technology, and in the very early stages of dementia. Or imagine you're an intellectually handicapped man like you have Down Syndrome or something. ?

Most of these things are so hilariously lazy though.

Let me be clear here, if a hacker has access to your PC, he will drain your bank, wallet or anything you have and keep quite about it and wait for you to make the move.

I suggest you respond him and I quote "Hey I am a rich Kinky guy and I love being abused, I have 3 Bitcoin in my PC wallet and I urge you to log-on and take them out of my computer as you have access to my device. Secondary to it, please leak my videos and photos as well, I love to be abused and harrasment is on top of my Kinks. Please do leak them, here I'll give you a few contacts of mine, (Give some random numbers form Yellow Pages) and make sure to write as bad about me so they tie me up, gag me, and beat the shit out of me. It will feel so good me Tied to a Poll in the cold streets Naked with blood all over my body thrown stones by everyone who walks by. With most regards, (Write a Fake but realistic name)." And send it to the scammer!

He will think you are mentally fucked! And after two days don't forget to reach him back again by email and ask him why he didn't do that, tell him you were waiting on it. You even made sure to buy a ripped dress and a pair of right rope for you to be tied up with! You are so disappointed and you'll pay him if he does leak them!

Do this and he will be mentally disturbed forever' and might stop the useless scam!

I get emails saying "We have hacked your credit card, to avoid.... send X BTC to the address...". Sorry, but if you've hacked my card, just take the money, right? They're geniuses.?

I heard on the TV show once the Romance Scammers say they don't even bother about having good English because they want anyone smart to respond anyway. May just be their excuse to be lazy about their English as well though. ?

A lot of them will phone their victim and be like, "Oh I was born in France and then I moved to Italy when I was a teenager and then I was stationed in the Netherlands for a few years and hence my funky accent.....when they're Nigerian.? Only a certain type of American would buy that.

The email just bounced back. I didn't write all that but I just tried to send "I don't have any crypto what can I do to see what he'd say. And it did say "Don't email back expect no pity from me", so I guess the guy that wrote the script didn't intend to get emails, and just hopes crypto is put in the wallet.

Well what he did was sent emails from cracked SMTPs therefore it launched to your SPAm else it be on inbox.

Secondary check the address of anyone sent any payment. I am sure none sent, unless someone have atleast 2-3 conversion with someone, they won't send a penny. At best they will talk to their lawyer!

Well, he made all kinds of threats about what would happen if he didn't get $886 US in crypto within 50 hours and he made it impossible to reply to him and said all this stuff about don't reply. He's given them enough time to try and work out what Crypto even has and how to get some and how to get the money. Oh and his script warns that he has hacked ALL your devices so he will see if you try and get help and immediately send video of the man masturbating to all his contacts. Why does he ask for $886US specifically? ?

This story is very old, and the scam is as funny as you say. I received it on an email I use for registering on websites where I don't want to use my primary email. I can't imagine who the fool is that would think I'd send them six hundred dollars for this nonsense.

Yeah, these emails have been around for at least a couple of years. I can imagine it works, especially if they can share passwords from a data leak attached to your email.

Ha! Someone tried to do that once to me, but the password was one I had not used in twenty years. And the email said "See, I have your password! I have access to everything." But it was a really weak password I'd used in like 2002 and they were trying to scam me by knowing it in 2022.
