Thread: HF members being harassed on telegram?

littlephish420 - January 9, 2025, 8:52 am

The only place online off the top of my head that I posted my telegram was on HF. The past few days I've been getting bombarded with child porn on telegram.

Obviously I don't subscribe to these groups but yesterday a group showed up in my feed called "child porn " I immediately reported it to telegram with all the relevant information including the exact minute it popped up as well as the date and the phone number associated with the account and a brief description of what happened. It wouldn't let me report it as child pornography so I had to report it as spam which was kind of weird.

I thought the nightmare was over with and then today the same thing happened except this time I checked to see who the administrator was and it was me!

This explains how the group ended up in my feed the day before.

Turns out on telegram you can make someone then administrator of a group without their consent. I changed the privacy settings to no longer allow invites.

The thing is I don't have any enemies out there neither online or IRL! I'm a pretty likable guy ? and drama I have encountered online has actually been here in HF on I think only two occasions.

one of them was a dispute between someone I made a contract with on behalf of my developer which was eventually solved. The deal was between him and my developer he knew that but he couldn't go after the developer so he hit me up and filed a dispute which I totally understand luckily my developer at that time who I no longer have any business with was able to resolve the problem by paying the gentleman back.

The only other time I had a problem was when I was selling eSims and had a guy using my service fraudulently. But other than that I've never had any problems before!

So I was very surprised and even more so confused about this harassment I encountered the past two days.

I was wondering if any other HF members encountered this form of harassment before?

I was thinking maybe other sellers or general members who posted their telegrams have ever had this happen to them?

Honestly I can't think of any other explanation for this other than somebody is targeting HF members.

Man I don't have tg and its because i have yet to see anything positive from it.

On hf i associate it with scammers.

I also watch pred catchers on youtube and it is ALWAYS cp groups on telegram.

littlephish420 - January 9, 2025, 8:57 am

I also want to mention because of the form of harassment I had actually filed a police report as well as contact FBI and file report with them. What pissed me off though was when I called the FBI they were more upset when I inadvertently referred to the call center woman as 'dude' when I said, 'dude I just want the harassment to stop' then they were the crime itself ??

The only other time in my life I ever encountered CP was on 4chan ?

I Heard rumors about CP on telegram and had no doubts that it was out there but I have never witnessed it until now and this is the first time someone's used that as a form of harassment against me.

Tell the truth the only reason why I got telegram was because I was working for a developer for a while that used it as a medium to communicate with clients.

Since then I use it to keep track of popular trends and breaches on various hacker and ransomware groups.

I use Telegram for some UAP related groups, climate news, and RU/Ukrainian videos coming out.

It's invaluable for actually getting things that don't always make their way to MSM, or get lost in the abyss of social media, reddit, etc...

Sorry this happened to you, but I wanted to mention this because I feel like a lot of HF users hate on TG. There are shitty people everywhere and TG shouldn't just be associated with scammers and blackhat activity. There are lots of other groups on it.

Yeah TG definitely has a bad wrap. I miss you at fallen by the way ??

Yeah, it really does. Oh well, hopefully more people give it a shot. I like their UI, formats, and bots way more than Discord's.

I'll be back on TG sometime, I haven't logged into it in a few weeks. Went on vacation, got used to less notifications, and just stayed off all of my chat apps since that point :)

InspectorGadget - January 9, 2025, 9:54 am

If you're in any TG groups or channels people can scrape them and then spam or add you to groups. That could be a way they got your TG username.

Why do you even allow people to add you to groups etc anyway? I turned that off almost instantly.

RootRXXT - January 9, 2025, 10:00 am

Nah don't use TG... have very little comms services

7 - January 9, 2025, 10:01 pm

I think it's a honeypot.

If you want to know what someone is up to, put them in a position that causes them to want or need to come to you for help.

What I am concerned about is the types of groups you have been dragged into while under your username it says - You have Milk.

I know it's crazy but I remember trolls on 4chan doing worse!

I can't think of anyone I have pissed off enough to do that which makes me think it's random but it's happened twice.

I just don't know why someone would target me, it has to be random!

I've barely even been online for the past 2 months.

I get updates from various groups that I monitor but I haven't talked to anyone till idk a week ago?

The groups I monitor don't have any reason to feel threatened by me. I can probably count every interaction the past 6 months I've had with people outside of HF and fallen on one hand...

7 - January 9, 2025, 11:52 pm

Now you've given permission to federal agencies to access your logs and the logs of everyone you've spoken too along with the groups.

Time to change TG. Phish got hooked

Hero - January 10, 2025, 2:33 am

I'm only in 2 porn groups and 1 hooligan group. No harassment yet luckily.

No everything on my end is clean and any conversation I ever had on that telegram was clean or gray at worse. I'll be closing the telegram and contacting everyone with a new one soon enough. Sorry guys! I really have no idea how this could have happened to me of all people.

So apparently somebody paid someone to convince me to delete my own account lol someone wants my fucking account that's hilarious ??

I'm gonna see if I can convince the retard to give me half of the money he made up front! ?????

longbob - January 12, 2025, 7:21 am

No offense but that's retarded ?

Govt spreading child porn would literally be the scandal of this century.

ExodusX - January 16, 2025, 5:38 pm

I have telegram for quite a long time and i never had such experiances even though there are a lot of scammers and fraudulent activities, worst thing that i had on telegram is that i was scammed around 400$ 2021 for a service from a fake hacker.

Rsynced - January 16, 2025, 6:25 pm

This is crazy, but I liked the part where you called a FBI agent 'dude'.

Never call a cop 'dude'... lol

It sets off alerts and anger in officers and now they are pissed at you.

Telegram is used for an array of things, scamming being one of them, but it's also used for a lot of legitimate things too.. it's just gotten a bad name due to all the scammers and illegal stuff, and the fact the Telegram moderators allow users to scam on the platform. Telegram has been allowing users to get away with damn near anything they want, without consequence. They don't care how many times an account gets reported, they will leave it up. It's only recently that they have started taking action against some things, and that's because their owner faced scrutiny after being arrested.

Telegram is the only social platform I know of, that you can't disable an account quickly. It takes multiple days to ban a Telegram account, and a very strategic plan. Doesn't come easy.. and that's because they allow users to do whatever they want. It was a time I thought Telegram was only used for scams, and shady behavior.. but after doing some research, have learned that it's used by numerous legitimate organizations and groups. Telegram is responsible for the bad reputation they have, no one else.

OP, sorry to hear about the experience you're having. Can't say that I've ever had that happen to me, but I have no doubt that there are people out there weird enough to do some shit like that. This is why I don't post my socials publicly, I don't trust anyone.

Wow, I did not know all this, I wonder how many people even run the platform? I am guessing they do not want to pay for mods etc, so anything goes. It's all financially related is my best guess.

Yeah, they allow a lot of stuff that other platforms won't even consider allowing. And it's not like they've overwhelmed with support requests, so just don't have time to check them all... they have moderators that actually do read the reports, they're just trained to not do anything. It's only specific things they'll remove and ban accounts for... and it's not CP or scamming. They'll turn a blind eye to it. They actually don't even remove illegal content from the platform, even if they disable the group that contains it. For example... let's say there is a group/channel, and it contains 1k users, and most of these users have shared content within the group..... and the group ends up getting taken down, the content those users uploaded will remain on the telegram platform, and is still accessible. They've definitely earned the shady reputation they have.

Interesting how such a large corporation is not being held liable for CP distribution. This is truly disturbing, I mean they could be working with the FED's and helping actively busting the CP groups and saving some kids from human trafficking.

That's a super fact. They definitely have more than enough data on users who distribute CP and could easily aid in prosecution, they just choose to protect them instead.

Instagram isn't too far from Telegram, when it comes to protecting users who distribute and sell CP. Instagram was exposed about 2 years ago by Temple University, for purposely directing users who had interest in CP, to accounts that actually sold it! They went as far as to give users an option when they searched for hashtags or terms that might contain CP, the option on whether they wanted to see the results... rather than just immediately blocking them! Numerous websites wrote articles about this, and Meta did a great job at removing those search results from all search engines. When you read some of the stuff that Instagram was purposely allowing, you will have a completely different outlook on Meta. If you would like me to link one of the articles that Meta managed to suppress from the search results, lmk and I will dig one of them up.

Speaking of instagram, I read an article on vigilant citizen and came across this hell:

Wow. That's pretty disturbing. I wasn't expecting the images you were referring to, being that dark. One of them had a child wrapped in a plastic bag, sprawled out on the bed. What kind of sus photography is that? While I used to blame parents for allowing their children to post stuff on social media, it's not unheard of for children to have phones/account without their parents knowing about it. I know I had a bunch of stuff my parents had no clue about when I was a child. The blame needs to be put on the platforms that are allowing it. Problem is, big companies like Meta have too much money and too much power, for anything to ever happen to them. Take a look at this article, and tell me Meta shouldn't be brought up on charges.

That Instagram I posted sends like chills from the devil himself down your spine for sure. It's like you feel fucked up after viewing it.

Maybe meta can just say: "The company has taken down 27 pedophile networks in the past two years and has blocked thousands of hashtags that sexualize children."

I mean they should have a CEO go to jail or something. This is disturbing.

Overall, it shows me personally that the people who run these companies like to abuse children. My guess from it all being so obvious, someone who runs these companies has a kid locked in a basement or some sick shit. I mean it's like some ego at this point, all signs pointing to being actively involved in child abuse at the highest level. I mean they came and admitted personally they raped the Corey's, and all the Hollywood kids are butt fucked with crisco behind trailers on sets of blockbuster movies in the 80's. Now they are running social media companies, same folk I bet...

For sure man, There always was them, Just no internet, I was abused myself as a child, so I tend to take this stuff personal. Not ashamed to admit it. Thank God my Mum got me and my bro out that hell. But from the experience, I honestly have it in me to hurt possibly kill someone who does things like this to children.
