Watch the full clip, it's interesting how multiple people chime in after Trump speaks - to confirm that they also have a drone problem and want answers.

The Answers: "They are planes or people fucking with other people."

They come in fleets, in multiple US states at once, and in multiple countries.
But otherwise yes, there is probably a logical answer.

Now, the orbs of light are what I'm most interested in, but the drones are a start here.

Didn't he promise to leak classified documents before and didn't do it?

I really don't trust him to actually do it.

I don't trust him to either - he did say he would. There are rumors that he was going to, but was shutdown.

The general thought is that it's possible POTUS is not automatically given all of the info. The rumor/conspiracy is that 1) the POTUS must actually request the info on their own, and 2) be cleared to receive the intel.

That is hard to believe because it would completely upend our understanding of the government, but at the same time it would make sense for information that is too sensitive to risk every 4-8 years.

I guess we'll find out soon.

I just hope that there is more of a distinction between orbs & drones. The drone fleets are interesting and concerning, but they are not the full story.

He promised to declassify documents for the public before. Different from "leaking".

And yes he failed to do it.

Technically it did already begin

Here's a good example - July 2023, findings shared between agencies, regarding technology that defies our capabilities, metallic sphere aircraft, etc.

The drone story I really think is just mass hysteria, I didn't know anyone was even talking about it still.

It would be interesting to see a list of Trump's day 1 promises and how many he fulfills though, just off top what I can remember...

- A) End the war in Ukraine with a phone call
- B) Release JFK files in full unredacted
- C) Commute Ross Ulbricht's sentence
- D) Pardon capitol "protestors"

Certainly there's much more by now ?

It's still a very real concern.

They continue to show up in fleets and nobody knows who is running them, where they come from, etc.

There are also more superior craft that show up more rarely.

Definitely not mass hysteria. There are thousands of videos at this point to prove that these are not normal planes, not residential drones, etc.

It's definitely concerning how widespread the issue seems to be. Hopefully, there will be some solutions soon.

Let's be real, we most likely won't see disclosure today or tomorrow.

In todays times, "day one" means in the first year and "3 days" means at least 3 years of any goal, operation, etc.
