Hello HF,

Anyone know a more credible master/visa virtual card issuers where you be able to reload and use that through internet (with no KYC requiring is more preferable).

In the past there were few working much smoothly but some of those are down now a days or their operation activity is restricted to some sites or regions.

Sounds like you're looking for a service like Moon. Can buy VCC's with crypto, and no KYC required.

I haven't used Moon personally as I never had a need for it. Any VCC's I ever need I usually buy from a 3rd party seller and they're usually from Revolut, however Revolut requires KYC so it doesn't seem like the option you're looking for.

As for my friends who have used Moon, they swear by it. I've only heard good things about the service. If you're at all skeptical, I'd suggest starting with a smaller amount purchase, and see how it works for you and if you like it. Then once you know, you can execute larger purchases.

I already initiated a transaction to it, It shows from my sender wallet that transaction was successful but in my moon account it has not yet hit the account, i hope they not be in some sort of scamming. It was considerable amount.

The good thing i saw in moon it was supporting most of the internet services and contained the service i was in need. Hope i do not face with any headaches and work for me smoothly.

As you said you buy the revoult from 3rd party, could you be kind enough to refer me to a more credible or authentic one seller/or seller center where i can i buy too - i would rather more prefer buying a workable/operational revoult from a 3rd party.

Thanks for confirming me this, i am still waiting the funds get credit to my moon account, lets see.
