Thread: Game of Thrones vs House of the Dragon?

I think Game of Thrones is a fantastic, epic series. Unfortunately, the final season's scripts were poorly written.

What do you think of the prequel series 'House of the Dragon?'

Is this prequel series better or worse than Game of Thrones?

Haven't seen a single episode of Game of Thrones, thus I have to give my vote for the latter.

People who have never seen Game of Thrones are quite rare.

Why not, if I may ask?

I think that 3 years ago, I saw a post about the exact fact: "People who have never seen Game of Thrones are quite rare."

Thus, I decided to stay in that group. ??

Hahahaha, well, being rare is also very special

It's hard to say with the prequel series currently. My original issue with House of Dragon is that it's starting off pretty slow BUT I think back to Game of Thrones and honestly, the first few seasons of that are relatively uneventful (when it comes to big battles and etc) and is more so about the plotting, politics and laying the entire scenario out for the future seasons when we really get into the meat of it. I like them both but where it stands now, Game of Thrones is better.

I couldn't get into house of dragon. I wouldn't rather another spinoff like Jon Snow on the nights watch or something.

I enjoyed both but I personally liked GoT more. Agreed on what you said about the ending seasons.

Game of Thrones season 1-7 (quit when I saw how bad 8 was gonna be never saw ending). House of Dragons is terrible. It's 7 episodes of talking and buildup for a cliffhanger. The scenes are so expensive to produce they can't do too much.
