Thread: I can't solve Havoc RAT to create listener

AnonUserBB - January 15, 2025, 9:09 am

Recently I install Havoc to try it on local machines and see how good is this RAT software but when I installed succesfully it have and error when I create the listener.

When I click to create a listener doesn't create anyone and doesn't seems to generate a error code or something to search the exact error, it just doesn't create any listener

I look on this error and someone tells that is just about permissions so I just run it on root and I have the same error, someone know what is happening?

Problem solved!

It was running from 127.0.0.1 so the RAT software was imposible to create the payload, if someone want to try the software she needs to go tho the server file and change ip to you local ip machine, I recommend to use this software because its not detected by Windows Defender so its good.

Had some good features, the bad thing is that is not avalible to see webcam or see what the user is doing in real time (but you can do screenshot), but that can be solved using other trojans that are avalible to use webcam or what the user is doing in realtime sharing the screen, but probably windows Defender is going to make a warning to the user that this software is running (the shared webcam or sharing screen)

Another good thing of the software is since the trojan is being used is that you are not avalible to delete the RAT, maybe with good technics yes but not with basic ones,

I hope you like this information!
