holy s thanks so much have been looking for something like this for so long wow you are a life saver where can i get the exploit itself

Metroplexx - January 19, 2025, 6:13 am

Could you share additional information regarding the specifics of your proof-of-concept?

The admin appears to consider the URL unsafe, so it would be preferable to provide us with a more detailed explanation of how these iOS 18 exploits function.

He's "selling" the "exploit", nobody is going to share a 0-day 0-click exploit for free, it worth hundred of thousands if not millions of dollars. Only companies and governments buy these, such as with Pegasus.

99% of chance this is a scam. Man has been sharing 0-day 0-click exploits on his TG for months, as if he just steps outside and picks them from his garden. He went from a starting price of $800,000 to prices as low as $800—it makes no sense.

Look at what the "0-day 0-click exploit" looks :

Shapeless - January 19, 2025, 6:55 am

Just forget about it, nobody is selling you IOS 0day lol theyd sell it to apple for solid cash if not someone serious, like a goverment agency just stop...

Send me a private message. I know a friend with an iOS RAT that may pair great with this!

resetti - January 20, 2025, 12:45 pm

This is a fake, scam channel.

And no he doesn't.

Sphere - January 20, 2025, 2:45 pm

lol probably fake.

And if it's real, it's possibly one of those attack surfaces that burned one day after you exploit them(i.e: IOSurface uaf)

What is fake/scam channel?

Who does not? Whom and what are you referencing?

Note- I am just sharing the PoC video of the exploit, please check its authenticity yourself.

You're not only sharing the video, the video advertise your TG channel everywhere. How are we supposed to check the authenticity ? We can't prove that it's a PoC, you showed that you were "able" to retrieve documents from the iPhone to your PC but you can also basically paste the same documents from another computer on the same network.

Nobody is going to pay 800.000$ online to a random, and nobody is going to sell a 0-day 0-click exploit for 800$ as you're trying to do in your last posts on TG. Better for you to sell to Apple :

generic messages sprinkled with terms that seem plausible to someone unfamiliar with how these things work but no exploit dev would use in reality. it also doesnt make sense that you can confirm a payload delivery, trigger the exploit and then get live feedback on the progress of it in that sequence when using a 0click rce like that due to how they actually work.

NERO - January 21, 2025, 3:09 am

Highly unlikely, The flow of the execution doesn't make sense?

PoC runs through a series of steps that just doesn't seem plausible.

It either your adding print statements for no reason and making it look like it's doing something to the end user or it's bs.

Also pulling device info would always collect a model number too, Just looks like a bunch of BS

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. The OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

If you haven't already read the first post of this thread we encourage you to do so.

Thanks,
Stanley

If there was a memory corruption vulnerability in iMessage on iOS 18, all the major security outlets would be reporting on it. The Python script doesn't even get run with arguments in the example.

Now you and I both know that is not true. They would only report it if they know it exists.

Yes, if only the posters in this thread received a six-figure exploit, Apple shouldn't know about it yet.

The fake/scam channel i was referring to was the one OP posted. He's now deleted his post

And regarding your message, your friend, does not have an iOS RAT, he's most likely lying to you, and you're gullible enough to believe it, which is probably the case, considering you actually thought this "exploit" that OP posted was real. When in fact it is the most obvious scam.

1. I am not gullible and did not believe OP.

2. The iOS RAT is indeed real. I have used it and I use it everyday to manage my own devices.

Refer: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=6290351>

3. Before you say the iOS RAT is fake, just be aware that I handed out 5 vouch copies between regular, l33t, and ub3r members. Out of those 5 copies, 4 members utilized the RAT and all said it worked when tested. Only 1 member did not test their vouch copy and requested private work done.

Finally, before you think something is fake you need to ask questions and ALOT of questions. You should also test it. Have a nice day!

1) Your initial reply to OP's thread contradicts this

2) Can't see shit on the thread cus its closed, but I would assume your "RAT" is just using MDM profiles for access

3) Nobody on your thread was a contracted customer (HF uses contracts for Vouch Copies too), and any "review" i did see looks fake as shit.

I don't need to ask questions, but feel free to give me access to this super l33t iOS hackerman RAT tool and I'll test it on my own phone.

Things like iOS spyware are simply not a thing unless you're talking about something like Pegasus that utilizes zero days (which is obviously not sold publicly and costs millions of dollars), or you jailbreak the phone beforehand and install malware (extremely rare chance this would actually work), or use MDM profiles maliciously (which is probably what you're doing).

Either way, I don't care to waste my time talking about this anymore, OP's thread was a scam from the get-go.
