Thread: Eagles to NFC Championship

Great game today in the cold snow between Philly Eagles and the LA Rams. Was brutal to watch. I worry about Hurts being injured but overall the #1 defense did their job. Great game and I really hope Eagles finally defeat Washington Commanders next week.

I liked the game very much and I am even more excited about the next game against the Commanders.

Especially because the last Commanders game was very good.

Eagles played great. (Minus our shit stain kicker who almost cost us the game)

And of course Ravens blew it. Such a good season for them to let down.

I was really hoping for an Eagles vs. Ravens Super Bowl. Fuck the Bills and Chiefs.

I'd be okay with an eagles vs. commanders SB too.

I have been an eagles fan since I was a kid, they would always win division, win playoffs and lose in the NFC championship ?. When they won the Super Bowl in 2018 it was awesome, that whole season with wentz and then backup foles was amazing....but, unfortunately since then I personally believe the NFL and many players have become to political and using their status and social media to promote their agendas and beliefs. Some players were punished, some were praised. Nobody cares, just play ball. I haven't watched a game since.

Stop celebrating after every play, stop crying about social injustice while making millions, stop making it all about you and instead be humble and keep it about the team. The league is no better either, protecting the QB nowadays like it's a child. Also what was with that rule not allowing players to signal first down ? change all that and Maybe then I'll watch but I doubt it will change.

Chilled at a Kava bar with my girl to watch it yesterday and it was a better game than I expected but RIP Buffalo. If they had an extra few minutes it would of gone into OT. I hadn't seen a good game in the snow like that in awhile either.

I feel like that's going to be so much entertaining than watching Eagles vs. Chiefs.

A fun game + Philly taking the Super Bowl win.

BTW, would kill to see the look on Giants head coach face after watching Saquan help Eagles secure a superbowl win. Oh the sweet justice.
