Thread: Graduated Technical School With a 4.0 GPA

Last year I made the decision to enroll in automotive school to pursue a career working with cars. I had been to college already for something totally different, and I hadn't had the best grades when I attended, actually ended up leaving the school all together with the feeling that I was wasting money. So I found this as another opportunity to prove to myself that I can lock-in. Long story short, I completed all my courses earning a 4.0 in each class as well as earning perfect attendance throughout the entire time I attended. I was later invited to the BMW Fast-Track program, Mercedes-Benz program, Volvo and Porsche programs as well. I never had a preference of vehicle make, because I hadn't had much experience to know much. So I continued my education by enrolling into the BMW program. I also got a 4.0 GPA after the program was completed, along with earning my BMW Associate Level ASE. I am interviewing for the remaining programs mentioned above, as well as looking into the welding and robotics program that is offered. I never really enjoyed being in school, but I'm glad I chose to devote myself this time around.

That's awesome, congrats on all your accomplishments in automotive school! It's great to see your hard work paying off and the doors opening up for you. Keep up the good work and best of luck with the interviews and the welding and robotics program!

Good job. It's hard to build the dedication and discipline to do that. You will make it far.
