Any of you watching this live?

Hackers - January 20, 2025, 10:56 am

Yeah a bunch of us were in Convo chatting about it at the time

Prepper - January 20, 2025, 11:41 am

Been watching the whole thing so far.

It has been going smooth so far, I do like that he still seems to be upholding his promise in regards to border security, he should be signing that executive order later today I assume.

Alternate Eggroll - January 20, 2025, 7:23 pm

Has everyone noticed how much hate Trump gets with these untimely taken photos? It's getting ridiculous

Economically I think he will. And thats the basis of his campaign. The economy and border security.

Watched live and I am not sure how to feel.

But keep in mind Trump's philosophy is America first and that's what his agenda will resolve around. And that philosophy is understandable because he is the American president, not the world president.

Well, he is the leader of the free world

I think it's a mistake to be isolationist and taint our very profitable alliances & hold on the planet.

I think it's a mistake to be isolationist and taint our very profitable alliances & hold on the planet. This has nothing to do with being an isolationist. This is more Trump's version of American dominance by economic, industrial, and military power. And the only reason we're turning a profit right now on our "alliance states" or rather "our vassal states" is because we blew up their cheaper gas pipelines so we could force sell them gas and oil at 4 times the market price. But this will only work for so long before our "allies" get tired of this game. And because European leaders are so weak and nothing more than cowards, they kowtow to whatever Washington demands, no matter how ridiculous it is. We destroyed the entire German industrial market, and yet these idiots like Scholz are still licking American boots. How weak is Europe?
