Thread: THE RULER has Disputed a Contract with Portugals \(5507106 \)

I purchased a 12 month sub YT sub on a new account. I was told if there were any issues, I would receive a new account.

What the user didn't disclose, was that this 12 month sub was actually 12 new google accounts with 1 month trials, and that every interruption wasn't going to happen at random, it was planned to happen every month and I was actually purchasing some straight up garbage.

? Warranty terms and Rules ?

Youtube accounts are guaranteed for the duration of your purchase, which means I will provide you with a new account post in case of any closure.

I should have a 12 month sub right now, how in the fuck is my youtube account guaranteed for the duration when there are 12 pre-planned interruptions because the seller is incompetent and is selling one month trial accounts without disclosing?

HOW DOES IT WORK ?

? The process will take a maximum of 5 minutes

Yeah okay, contacting this clown takes a lot more than 5 minutes. What part of this process takes 5 minutes? Creating 12 google accounts and having meetings around renewal time each month to go through the process of creating a new google account, providing him with the information, having all of your history & preferences reset, and then going through all of your devices and re-linking those as well?

This entire thread is deceptive and misleading, and he's banking on my contract being marked as invalid as was his last dispute, so he can continue to pull this shit.

After first month, auto-renew failed, and he informed me that I actually purchased 12 1-month trials, and not a 12 month yt premium sub as specified in his thread/contract I told him to fuck off.

I'm not willing to take any other accounts from him, if an admin marks this invalid, whatever, a scammer gets away with some petty funds. I will just buy elsewhere from a user who has a brain capable of free thought

There is a reason why this worm doesn't have (12 free trials) listed under 12 month youtube sub. Imagine thinking your customers are just going to be okay with linking 12 more google accounts to all of your devices and clearing all data monthly to save $9 on a sub that better sellers can offer at a similar pricepoint with a better method. If he had disclosed this retarded shit when I had purchased, or anywhere on his thread, I would not have.

That's bad from him! I did a quick "stupid" deal with him, and he was already pissed after me reaching him out. Hopefully you get a decent refund.

Hello from this guy for $15 'New account option in case of a problem Youtube account purchased'

(You can see our agreement from the written image on telegram)

- I offered this guy the options and he accepted this option and agreed

- Now he is not accepting a new account because there is a problem with his account, but why is he waiting? I offered you the guarantee at the beginning and offered you the new account option and you accepted it, isn't that fair?

You should have bought the $26 option to continue for 1 year with a single account (no risk) you didn't choose the option.

Now you can't come here and accuse me of being a scammer, why do people buy the $26 option? Because they don't want risk.

I offered you the options at the beginning and you chose this, there was a problem with your account and I was ready to send you a new account but you didn't accept it, that's your choice.

Stick to the agreement there is no reason for me to refund use your new account or continue to blame me because we act according to the agreement and the guarantee conditions.

You think you are a smart mouse but every price has a price, if you had bought the $26 option you could have used your own account without any risk.

You bought the cheapest option and it works as it should clown I offered you the options you accepted no need to cry.

and also, whether it is a trial version or not, selling it is not prohibited here, I did not see such a rule,

(new account and new account option in case of a problem is $15) You accepted the option, I did not force you to choose this and writing 'scam' in my thread is a huge sign of inferiority, you know I didn't scam you.

Of course, the person who bought the $26 (no risk, same account) option and the customer who bought the $15 (new account) option do not have the same conditions.

I bought a 12 month subscription on a new account, not 12 free trials on a 12 new accounts with your new VCC EACH and EVERY month, not what I purchased whatsoever, no matter how you word it.

You PURPOSELY left out details because you know anyone with a brain would refuse to purchase this shit normally.

I do not have an active 12 month subscription like I paid for, and I refuse to take 12 different google accounts and link them to my device/abuse ToS and organize field trips on telegram to set up new accounts every month of the expiration date with a bumbling retard.

You can either refund me or leave this completely valid deal dispute up. Frankly I don't care either way, I've basically assumed I've been out $15 since the first exchange with you today.

As I said, I no longer feel safe receiving accounts from you, refund me if you are unable to offer the service, the service that you have yet to provide, an account with an active 12 month subscription.

I will NOT accept 12 1-month trial accounts repeatedly, that is not what I paid for, that is not on your thread, neither the contract. Only a 12 month SUBSCRIPTION.

I doubt I will receive a refund, this guy is just a grifter, it's why he is purposely vague on his thread.

Do not let this discourage you from using other sellers! I have purchased similar services on this forum for the last 5 years, all went off without a hitch for the full period of the subs.

"You should have bought the $26 option to continue for 1 year with a single account (no risk) you didn't choose the option"

The way your thread is worded it IS IMPLIED that there is only a single account with your cheaper option as well. In case of closure? "risk"?

By the way, either you don't understand the english language, or you're purposely playing stupid.

You FULLY INTENTIONALLY leave out all details hinting that you are selling 1 MONTH TRIALS that need to be replaced MONTHLY and act as if you are selling subscriptions, in which you COMPLETELY AND CATEGORICALLY are not doing so.

Let me inform you of what a risk is you absolute clown, it is when you are exposed to POTENTIAL danger, yes in terms of account closure I would be expecting a new account, with the same active 12 month subscription. When you guarantee that there is a stop every 30 days by providing me with SOMETHING OTHER THAN WHAT I PAID FOR and I have to have a pow wow with some illiterate foreigner who can't comprehend basic english on telegram that is no longer a RISK. I don't have time for your bullshit.

100% scammer grifter con artist there is a reason why you are banned from many other forums as highlighted in prior disputes.

That is purposely misleading. "New account" DOES NOT in any way make it clear you are selling him shitty trial YouTube subs.

I would be fuming if you did this to me. You need to advertise "problem will happen, every month, as these are trial accounts".

Charlie Sheen - January 21, 2025, 6:34 pm

Your term "new account" makes it seem like he's just getting a new account from you instead of using his current existing account. It doesn't imply in any way that he would be needing a new account every month of the year. This is something that should've been mentioned before the contract was started. I used to sell 1 month xbox live codes, one of my listings was for 3 month xbox live but I made sure to let my customers know they would be getting 3x 1 month codes to redeem.

this is a shitty tactic. The leecher forums are littered with services that charge $5-$8/lifetime for the same shit and defendant is reselling it for $15/year using deceptive marketing.

example:

<https://xupgrader.com/youtube/pricing.html>

$8 lifetime/single is what most people resell from. then once that 12 month shit is up they sell the same key to someone else lol. Theres shopify, disney+, all of the big names

It gets clapped after 1 month and you need to renew.

The user bought a new account guarantee account from me and chose this option, there was a problem with his account and I need to send him a new account but he did not accept it.

Also all the accounts that will be sent to him will not be 'free trial', and there will be no problems every month.

But he chose the cheapest option at first and accepted the 'new account guarantee in case of problems' also it is written in the 'Warranty & conditions' section, I apply the option he chose

I don't see anything different here, there is a big difference between the expensive and cheap options, if he had bought the 'NO RISK' option there would have been no problem anyway, but the cheap one is sent as a new account as stated in the option he chose, and I told this guy this from the very beginning in our conversations and he accepted it.

Like everyone else, this man also has to abide by the agreement and it is his choice, if there is a problem I am obliged to provide him with a new account. This does not mean that there will be problems every month.

and of course I didn't give him the guarantee of using the same account for '1 Year' because he didn't buy that option, there is no 'No Risk' statement in the option he bought and I said that I will send a new account in case of any problems and it is written in the 'Warranty & Conditions' section of this thread, whenever the accounts sent to him die, then a new account will be sent, and it is not always the case that they die every month.

This guy violates the agreement and curses me many times, I gave you options and you accepted them, so what's the difference between you and those who bought the 'No risk' option? Other customers are not stupid.

However you didn't state he was getting 12 separate accounts that he would have to get with you monthly to retrieve. That would be frustrating to have to start on a new account every month.

Resubscribe to all the content creators I watch, save all the playlists, this would be very frustrating for me if I wasn't told upfront from the beginning what I was buying.

All you told him was "new account guarantee".

You NEVER disclosed you were selling me trials and that I was purchasing 12 different 1 month trial accounts.

I NEVER would have purchased this shit you were selling if you actually made it clear that you are not selling what you claim 12 month subs on new accounts.

Who the fuck is linking 12 different google accounts and setting up hours' long meetings with people abroad once a month to set up a new trial account with all new information.

There was NO agreement made for me to take 12 trial accounts. I didn't receive what I purchased at all, A SINGLE 12 MONTH SUB ON A NEW ACCOUNT.

You are so used to getting your way and being a cunt that you literally won't even acknowledge how wrong you are in selling this absolute TRASH as a 12 month subscription when it so clearly IS NOT.

Also, how in the fuck would a free trial account not die at the end of the free trial? You are literally using VCCs with $0 to initiate 30 DAY FREE TRIALS. The account I received, 30 DAY FREE TRIAL.

I didn't purchase this fucking bullshit, I don't want to have a back and forth with a literal cretin, resolve this or we can just await omni's decision, whatever he decides, I'm completely cool with.

The average user on HF has been burned by you, I'm guessing many times by the recent deal disputes, and you are a literal CANCER to the community, the fact that you are so adamant on continuing to scam me for $15 instead of refunding me when you sold me something I literally DID NOT purchase and have $0 invested is absolutely insane you dimwit. You could have just refunded me and kept up your grift without the community being aware of how slimy you are.

Frankly, I don't care about the $15, even if the decision ends not in my favor, everyone will be aware that you are clearly a scammer.

I've used another user here, at a similar price point, and already received a 12 month upgrade, hassle free, no fucking bullshit trial accounts.

Be mature and comply with the warranty & conditions, like all sellers, I also have warranty conditions and this was notified to you and it is also written in my thread.

This was stated to you at the beginning and you accepted it, accounts sometimes die after 2 months and sometimes after 1 month and a new account is sent under the new account warranty.

You accepted this and agreed to take the cheapest option, do not cry anymore and use the new account or not, it is your choice.

No, was never explained to me at all actually. You did something entirely different than what I ever expected after receiving my funds, you sent me a trial account. I purchased an account with a 12 month sub, not 12 accounts for abusing trials once a month.

Stop blatantly lying in your responses. It literally proves your guilt. How can an account that is enrolled in a 30d trial with a VCC with $0 renew? It can't.

You're literally using the contract system to your advantage in SCAMMING any customers you may have. No one will be able to edit B-Rating after you scam them, because 30d will have passed before they realize they've been duped into some bullshit.

Keep the $15 if you really are intent on not resolving this. I really do hope you get closed before others' can be scammed (disputes in past invalidated were also your victims, sad.)

I don't care about what I said to you, period, you're a desperate doggy and turned into a scumbag the second I realized I was scammed by you and requested a refund, your only response "IOoK waT yOu HaVe aGreEd tO" when it is not mentioned anywhere in the thread or in the contract that you are selling 1 MONTH TRIAL ACCOUNTS and not the actual fucking subs you are advertising.

This is wild. Refund the buyer his money.. didn't you just have a dispute with something similar whereas the person purchased a subscription, and when they got it it was some wild loophole with how the subscription played out, and they wanted their money back too? I remember writing a response on that dispute too, suggesting that you refund the buyer.

The buyer isn't trying to scam you or get over on you, he's merely not happy with the product/service you supplied.. and with good reason, so why not just refund him?? If you're going to be selling these shady type subscriptions, then you to have to expect that not everyone is going to want it once they find out its not a regular subscription... so you should already prepare yourself to be ready to refund in the event they complain. If you don't want/like refunding your customers when they're not happy.. then you should probably sell something else.

Unfortunately, maybe that's what needs to happen. If someone continues to provide shitty services, and buyers keep complaining, and other users are showing proof of you doing the same things on other forums.. it shows this type of track record will continue. These are the type of sellers that give the rest of the Vendors a bad name.

It kind of look like he paid $15 for 12 months of YT.

It doesn't even say $15 per month, but we can ignore that for now.

At end of the day, you promised a 12 month upgrade and the contract doesn't say anything about 12 separate months.

Offering the buyer options in advance and starting a contract, and offering the buyer a guarantee that a new account will be sent if there is a problem and the buyer accepts this at the beginning, now when a new account is sent, they reject it.

We did not talk to this guy about free accounts or / paid accounts, I am obliged to provide him with Premium for the duration of the time he receives it, since the option he receives is risky, the accounts may die after 1 month or maybe 2 months and I send him a new account, because there is no NO RISK next to this option, I also offered him the NO RISK option but he did not accept it at first, the $15 he sent me and I think he used the service for 2 months, this amount is not important but I do not find his behavior to be correct

No, I already gave him 2 options, RISKY and NO RISK.

In the first option, which is the cheapest option, I stated that if there is a problem, a new account option is guaranteed.

In the second option, I stated that there is no risk for 12 months.

He chose the first option, he chose the new account option in case of a problem and there was a problem with his account, I sent him a new account, that's all.

I don't understand why I am being blamed here, I didn't give him a guarantee / promise that he would use the same account for 12 months and I am fulfilling the guarantee I said

I still stand behind the service and warranty I provide, his new account is ready under warranty, I will send him his login information if he wants.

But I don't think the refund issue is fair according to the contract and agreement we made and his choice.

I will act according to the decision of an authorized person,

I don't want to be bad with anyone and it's pointless to fight for gum money. I just didn't deceive him or tell him lies.

Scammer. I honestly hope you refuse to refund me and this dispute ends in your account closure. To be fair you paid $15 for someone to guarantee 12 months of 2FA or card-backed YouTube premium trials for you. Right? Pretty good & the TOS does cover you if your account drops.

However Portugals you could've made it a bit more clear. I do think anyone who knows accounts would understand your messages about this. Clearly the buyer here isn't understanding what was really being said about the chance of an account being banned or expired.

TOS for replacing accounts seems pretty straightforward.

I think the buyer is honestly unfamiliar with this type of account deal. This is not new, I think people may be too harsh on Portugals for this one. People buy trial or other 1-2 week accounts all the time and get new ones just like this. I remember seeing this type of thing decades ago and ever since.

Is this DD really over $15 or $$15 \times 12 = 180$?

Legitimately clueless, I'm assuming you've never stepped foot in NFA section, upgrades on new accounts are typically offered as a cheaper option b/c of cost difference or difficulty when upgrading personal US based accounts or adding them to family plans of foreign accounts. This has always been a thing, and I've been familiar with it as I've purchased these types of accounts for many years.

I have purchased many YEARS of subscriptions through this method, and through many sellers on this forum (foreign family plans, fresh accounts, 12mo renewing successfully for entire agreed upon time period)

However, he is not doing that, he has completely ignored this common practice and is selling 30-day trial access accounts whilst still describing them as ANYONE else would for LEGITIMATE 12 month subscriptions.

I didn't fucking buy 12 30 day trials on separate google accounts, when you buy TRIALS it is ALWAYS DISCLOSED or they are sold on a MONTH TO MONTH basis, not ANNUALLY

You received an account that is intended to be 12 months.

TOS says if it expires or anything happens, he'll happily give you a new account to replace it.

I understand that you aren't aware of how account sales work. That's obvious because Portugals is doing something that has been done for decades on forums / marketplaces.

You paid $15 for 12 months of YouTube and I pay the normal full price directly to YouTube.

It is extremely hard to have empathy for you based on that alone.

Portugals could've been a bit more clear, but he was clear before you paid:

While I have much love for you bro, I don't think people are being too harsh on him.. as he has a track record of doing stuff like this.. selling misleading subscriptions and services, and when the customer complain.. he has no inclination or want to correct things. Part of being a stand up seller, is being able to look at things from both perspectives.. in which the seller is not. The seller is merely thinking of himself, and his own pockets. He doesn't care if he ruins his reputation as seller, or on the forum... ASLONG as he doesn't have to refund the buyer, then he's OK. That's not only poor customer service, and not someone I would ever want to do business with.. that's just being a bad business man.

Not every deal is going to go ideal. A customer isn't always going to be happy with their purchase, that's part of doing business. I do business with a wide variety of individuals, for a wide variety of things.. regularly, both off-site and on-site. Are customers always happy? No. And when they're not, I offer them a replacement or refund.. even if it means me taking a small loss. Why? Because that's part of being a good business man. Treat your customer right today, and it's a good chance he will come back in the future, and others will trust doing business with you.

If I purchase a 12 month premium subscription... then I am expecting 1 account, with 12 months of premium. If it's going to be to be anything other than that, then I would expect that to be mentioned explicitly UPFRONT prior to purchase. I don't know anyone in their right mind that would accept 12 separate 30 days trial accounts. What if something is to occur, and the seller is no longer on the forum..? Or is still on the forum, but not active due to family emergency? Then the buyer is screwed out of his money. With this concept, it's depending that the seller will be active and be around for the next 12 months.. and that's not guaranteed. Sellers get kicked off the site regularly.

I'm saying this is a tale as old as time.

I am not sure if we need to spell it out, but how exactly do you think trial accounts are started? Do you just use an email address? No. It needs to have an account on it that hasn't been used, so you can start your trial.

Also, do we know 100% they were 30 day trials and not just real subscriptions that were then cancelled?

I'm not incredibly misinformed.

I think I've seen this exact style of account sales happening online since like 2005 or so, and probably before that too.

I think if Portugals' method here is "surprising" to anyone, then it's clear they don't know anything about the topic.

I will avoid spelling it out for yall but there are only a few methods to do what's happening here, and almost all of them justify the "vague" language around it. If you know, then you know. If you don't know, you do not know.

Selling 30-day trials when advertising annual subs for music is NOT common practice you dolt, no matter how retarded you may be and think it is, it isn't. The primary way of selling subs for both YT and Spotify for the last 5-10 years have been family plans set up in countries where the currency conversion rates make it make sense. I've NEVER had someone provide me with trial accounts when purchasing annual subscriptions, only when paying month to month bullshit where ultimately it doesn't even matter, on platforms where preferences, history, and the like also don't matter.

- and the $15 is for non-annual

Clearly you can't fucking read as it does NOT say that... You act so fucking knowledgeable about everything but you just talk straight out of your ass- $15 for a new account to ANYONE who buys these types of products would expect one singular account with a 12 month sub not 12x accounts. Account != accounts.

Portugals you can get fucked too, too poor to refund $15 is a bad look.
Lmao holy shit dude this is for $15, who gives this much of a fuck? You seem to be more mad than OP is

As I said, pretty obvious scheme here with trials. Only $15 for 12 months. Pretty solid considering how expensive it is otherwise.

How do you expect these accounts to be sold? I'd love to see someone else come up with a method for 12 months, which is basically 12x30days, for $15 without account swaps. Even doing it at $26 is a feat.

Are you suggesting that Portugals should illegally card or steal the accounts instead of offering trials? Or do you have another magical method?

Use your brain dude.
Read between the lines. Think!

Portugals, these ppl dont understand account sales and rolling account services. Good service, 12 guaranteed trials for only $15 is much better than paying full price.

Cheaper at $15, and if there are problems he'll replace it

Its called family accounts buddy. Adding existing accounts is more problematic, new accounts far easier so anyone who is in the market for these is going to assume that.

Okay, if there are other methods then I get it. I'll summarize by saying that I wouldn't have personally been surprised because I've seen this before in the past.

Portugals it's only $15 to preserve rep.

Ruler, it's only $15 for inconvenience but cheap as hell Premium

But I'd refund if I was Portugal.

You are spending $15 instead of $140-180 for a year of premium.

There is a reasonable expectation that account sellers will sell accounts that expire or get closed within a few weeks of being opened.

If it wasn't a method using Trials, it would be a method using cracked/stolen or carded accounts. There is only a tiny % chance that this would ever be anything other than a trial or other soon-to-expire account.

You guys keep saying I'm clueless but if you don't know that account sellers sell accounts highly likely to expire less than 30 days, then you don't know anything.

The fact that it even lasts 30 days, every month for 12 months is great!

Tell me - what other account method in bulk is going to last all 365 days?

- carded accounts get refunded and closed
- hacked accounts get detected and closed
- cracked accounts barely exist anymore
- etc etc

Y'all keep acting like I'm the stupid one but you support buyers who thought they were going to get 12 months of undisturbed access to YT premium for $15. Tell me who's crazy lmao.

If you know fuckall anything about account selling game online then you know what I've said is true.

There isn't some magical 0day on YT premium.

Some account types have occasional credits, or coupons, or credit card reward redemptions that can be used. Some account types have a market for them, where people might sell off a subscription or product/service license. This is all true - but a lot of the time when you see account subscriptions for sale, it's going to be something that has a caveat.

Guaranteed 30 days of service, every month is actually good, especially knowing that Portugals is not using one of those more illegal methods to do this.

I guess all I can say is that back in my day kids were happy to get an account that lasted 2-3 weeks out of the month.

Y'all are tripping over $15 and a perfect, repeatable, working method from Portugals. Go watch TV already Portugals I'll buy 12 months premium YT but you have to agree to literally PM me on the 1st of every month automatically with my login so it's not inconvenient for me.

Wilmer - February 6, 2025, 8:42 am

I agree if it was 12 one month trials then should have been stated. The common practice for this is an uninterrupted year regardless of if it's YouTube, Spotify, Crunchyroll etc. I ran a shop short term but didn't keep up with advertising. Now I just upgrade myself or friends/family. The main method for these accounts still works for the most part. Many of the other reputable sellers on here sell uninterrupted services. I've used them and had zero trouble when I didn't have time to load my own account for upgrades. Hope this gets resolved. The amount of disputes over pocket change in the recent years is a bad look for our marketplace. Can be fixed if members are just straight up with what they offer and stand by it. Why blow up your accounts for this site. Of course there are others but this one is the cleanest and easiest to navigate by far. Not to mention the convenience of the contract system. Good luck to both sides.

Out of hand is an understatement at this point. I honestly never thought anyone would even stoop to the level of trying to pass off 12 free trial accounts to a person, especially without pre-warning them before their purchase. This undermines what a Vendor is suppose to represent on HF. Vendors aren't supposed to be on here trying to peddle off whatever free crap they can get their hands on, so that they can make a quick buck. Vendors should be selling quality products and services that they're proud to sell, and be open to refunding their customer when they're not satisfied with their purchase. The complete opposite of whats taking place here.

I'm honestly shocked this dispute it still going, I thought the seller would of gotten it thru his head that this was poor handling of a customer, and would of refunded you by now. Would rather ruin his own reputation, for a measly $15. Sad, and is more proof that not everyone is meant to be a Vendor. The overall consensus on this thread is that he is in the wrong, you would think that he would of came to his senses by now.

I've personally purchased 12 month subscription on this forum in the past, and it came via Family Plan. This is what buyers expect when they purchase a 12 month subscription... not 12 separate bs trial accounts. Portugals do better.

What he is doing is grifting and I can speak with the utmost confidence that this method is not the norm when dealing with account upgrades for these services (music subs, both yt and spotify have the same process used by hundreds if not thousands of sellers I have never failed in 5 yrs to find an upgrade at this pricepoint). You won't find another seller selling trials in place of 12mo subs for youtube on this site.
