Thread: Bruteforce for a game?

Sockeatr - January 23, 2025, 7:49 pm

Hi! I'm really new, I'm specifically looking for a bruteforce password cracker for a game called (AnimalJam). I want to help my friends get their things back (no malicious intent behind this at all, just for 2 friends!) as we all played 7+ years ago and no longer remember emails used/passwords. It's just for 2 accounts! Or if someone can do it for me that'd be nice! (Since idrk what to do) I have the 2 usernames and can give any extra information needed!

There is a high probability that the account has been withdrawn of money / items (if there are such things on the game). If the game is popular, maybe someone also changed the email address and password to sell the account.

Databreach happened in October 2020 :

They probably improved the security since, otherwise you can try to brute force with Hydra using the http-post-form

You can also try to find the database leak, but I doubt someone released it for free. That rarely happens

Hey! If you are still looking to get into accounts. I am the founder of Veiled Claws, a small hacking group for Animaljam. We primarily focus on Classic, however, our program works on the parent dashboard which allows us to access any account type. If you are somewhat knowledgeable on Python code and would like to you join us, our discord is veildedclaws and our instagram is veilded.claws. We look forward to hearing from you!
