

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: How much bots can free hosting service hold?

loomixx - January 27, 2025, 1:50 pm

Hey guys im really interested if it is possible to make money using botnet without financial contribution (at least for start). So my question is how many bots can free service handle with basic CPU (2x) and 16GB Ram? Do not be very accurate, its just theoretical question.

Sand Ferret - January 27, 2025, 5:54 pm

The bigger question is, how do you intend to get bots without any financial contribution?

Good malware is not free. Keeping your malware clean is not free. Nothing that is good is free.

loomixx - January 27, 2025, 9:50 pm

(Jan 27, 2025 06:54 PM)Sand Ferret Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The bigger question is, how do you intend to get bots without any financial contribution?

Good malware is not free. Keeping your malware clean is not free. Nothing that is good is free. What do you mean? Didnt really understand. I think I did explain clearly lukeskywalker - January 28, 2025, 4:00 pm

Hey loomixx, It depends on lots of things

Are the bots coded to stay connected or do they look for an attack every 15 seconds before getting ready to attack ?

How much monthly bandwidth does the host have ?

If the bots attack start slow and the host has unlimited bandwidth then I would say your host can hold up to 40k bots based on the 2 cpu and the 16gb memory you have told us about

loomixx - January 28, 2025, 11:36 pm

(Jan 28, 2025 05:00 PM)lukeskywalker Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hey loomixx, It depends on lots of things

Are the bots coded to stay connected or do they look for an attack every 15 seconds before getting ready to attack ?

How much monthly bandwidth does the host have ?

If the bots attack start slow and the host has unlimited bandwidth then I would say your host can hold up to 40k bots based on the 2 cpu and the 16gb memory you have told us about

Thanks. This answered my question. Each bot sends get https request every 1-2 minute so server can flag them as online. About bandwith, i dont really know.