You think that it won't happen because it's only an executive order?

No it will happen but only for 4 years. Or until a dem comes in office and gets rid of it. Laws need to be passed for this while reds have control of congress.

Trump's trying to get the Constitution changed to give him 8 years or more.

Nah, what's the logic in it? I don't see why they can't serve as long there are certain standards in place where the transgender person is stable and has been switched over for a certain amount of time etc.

It is a mental illness IMO, so no I do not believe they should be able to be in our military sports etc absolutely ridiculous that it got to this point. Don't take this out of context I don't hate them, I just don't believe it is healthy for them/society/military anything and creates more unnecessary issues.

Not that I'm a LGBT supporter, but this seems like discrimination without basis.

US military does not need people who are worried about what gender they are to be fighting for our country. There is only two genders, male and female in this world. Simple as that.

I'm already lacking respect for the US military, so this is no surprise. Nothing but a meat grinder that preys on insecure and misguided youth.

America, ahh yes, so free!

No hate intended because I love you, but would you feel differently if the topic wasn't military? Let's say it was banning them from competing in cisgender sports? Most reactions I see is mainly based on the fact that this has to do with the military(not you but friends irl posting) they just hate it so much they can't focus on anything else.

Just to clarify, does this mean that trans should be allowed because the military should avoid getting into politics?

Or do you think that being trans is political in nature just on its own, and should be banned?

I personally think trans should be allowed to join the military.

We should focus on the strongest people, and that might just be a man-to-female soldier, or a female-to-male soldier.

I don't think the gender or sexual preferences of our soldiers are relevant to being productive, successful, and strong.

I think if it's a distraction in any way, that's because the distracted soldiers are undisciplined, and that suggests the flaw is with them - not with the transpeople.

Prepper - January 28, 2025, 3:39 pm

Most of the people against transgender people in the military are little keyboard warriors that don't have the courage to go enlist themselves.

Straight, Gay, Lesbian, Bi, Trans, you should have the fucking right to sign up to defend this country and not be discriminated against.

Agreed, and not sure why people care.

They spend so much time thinking about another persons genitalia, you gotta wonder

Obstinato - January 28, 2025, 3:46 pm

Correct me if im wrong, but from my understanding of this.. Its only a ban on people transitioning because of the type of medication they need and medical procedures and checks. its more about needing the people in the military to be able to be combat ready at a moments notice which wouldn't be the case if you undergoing some serious changes that need monitoring.

neightworks. - January 28, 2025, 3:47 pm

I don't understand this? If you don't like transgenders go let them die, if you do like transgenders great we have equality.

Then they can just allow trans to opt out of medical treatment for national security, or they can choose not to join if they need ongoing medical

No need to outright ban transgender persons.

I'm willing to bet we make exceptions for a fuckton of medications and other medical needs though.

With that logic, any soldier addicted to nicotine or on ANY medication should also be banned for being a burden and risk? It requires them to leave combat just to be mentally at their best, so could be considered excessively needy.

I believe the logic would be anyone under medication that affects your ability to perform your role. But yeah this doesn't seem to just be "ban trans from the military"

Most reactions I see is mainly based on the fact that this has to do with the military(not you but friends irl posting) they just hate it so much they can't focus on anything else. In some ways I think it is a complicated situation. For the military, outside of random circumstances, i think you should be able to serve as long as you are physically fit, mentally sound, strong willed, and of age. And I will say I do understand the need for a country to have military, in general, despite my disagreements with how "society" works, haha.

For stuff like sports honestly I haven't really thought about it too much, I understand that statistically men and women are different on average, physically. I don't really think someone should be able to "change" their gender overnight and then say, the next day go play for a different team. But those decisions don't happen overnight I imagine. I think if someone has transitioned to the point where a random person on the street would say they were man/women, then I don't have an issue with it.

The way I see it unless someone infringes on me or others, then they can live their life however they may please.

what's your source on transgender people needing to be banned by POTUS like this when less than like 1% of the population is trans?

Why do you guys care so much?

Source doesn't matter if it is correct, this just shows your bias and laziness to verify or do any research simply because you don't like cnbc.

I find it hilarious that "straight" people get so obsessed with the LGBT community. It's almost like they think more about genitalia than the actual LGBT people do. It has always made me wonder if it's an insecurity thing...

You could send 35 different sources from reputable organizations. They just claim it's fake news.

It's usually a sign of dwindling energy and a lack of intelligence. They just can't read that much, it's too much and it challenges their worldview so they just say it's fake news and take pride in "owning libs" for some reason.

Lmao yeah pretty much ...

I think they are genuinely terrified that if they watch some media or listen to a democrat, they might finally become gay. They're teetering on the edge of gayness. Even a cartoon could be enough to push them over the edge into a life of suckling on their own genders goods. They're so scared because they see how easy it is to go from wanting pussy to loving cock. Just one news segment could be enough.

They are battling... dun dun dun... drumroll... the Woke Mind Virus, and it could turn any Republican gay if they're not careful.

This is what I've observed based on their fear of the spread of wokeness and progressive policy.

I was just a boy when I ended up in a YMCA locker room full of naked, very old geriatric men changing. It wasn't a necessary sighting. Those were definitely not the droids I was looking for.

You are crying and saying a fact is impossible. yet I provided a link it already happened & there is nothing "liberal" about reporting that a Republican Congress man has in fact put forward a House resolution that Trump get a third term.

I also find it funny because multiple times now with MAGA on this forum they post an article as their source based on the title but once you actually read the article which I do unlike them the article goes against their agenda this is why you don't go by titles.

They have no willingness to actually be unbiased, they have no willingness to actually do a tiny bit of research. I reached a point now where I just ignore the ones who are like that because it goes nowhere.
