Thread: Need Help Choosing a Debatable Research Paper Topic

informalmarc - January 29, 2025, 5:55 pm

Hey guys, I need help picking a debatable research paper topic. It should have plenty of sources available. Here's what I can't use:

Euthanasia
Organ Donation
Nuclear Power
Mental Health
Voter ID Laws
Animal Rights
Gun Laws
Abortion
Overly political

Also, just a heads-up, my professor is a transie liberal freak of nature (Pride flags in the class, gave out Kamala Harris leaflets, etc.) and has a strong stance against guns and weapons. She already struck down my idea on the JFK assassination, but she approved the "Donald Trump is an illegitimate president because he has a felony, yadda yadda yadda also approved the Donlod trump is not president because he did not put his hand on the bible (Even tho she has a postor saying that god is not real" topic.

Any ideas?

I'm sure you guys will come up with the best/worst ideas.

I'd go mental health.

So many different options, so easy to find papers and have tons of information whether you lean right or left.

Rest are lame, or too frequent where they become even more lame.

Mental Health is a healthy umbrella with many different topics to go with.

How about researching the impact of social media on political elections? It's a hot topic with plenty of sources available, and it's not on your professor's banned list. Good luck with your paper!

Biased search results in the 2016 election could have had swayed 20% of undecided voters:

Do one about the genocide in Gaza.

Or you could be less cut throat and do one about Trump's attack on free speech.

settled on the Right to Repair. Funny enough, she allowed Trump's attack on free speech to a different pupil, but she was against my friend's 'Joe Biden should have been impeached' one.

Hey man, here are a couple of ideas that might work:

1. Automation & the Future of Work: There's a ton of research on how robotics and AI are changing the job market. You can debate whether these changes will boost productivity, create new opportunities, or lead to widespread unemployment.

2. Ethics of Artificial Intelligence: AI is a hot topic with lots of angles to explore—from privacy concerns and bias in algorithms to the potential for AI to revolutionize industries. It's well-researched and should give you plenty to work with.
