

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: I have no idea what that means, NJ Sen. Andy Kim on Trump White House drone speech

Hackers - January 30, 2025, 5:10 am

I will say it again:

Donald Trump is lying about the drone situation at worst,
And is misinformed or otherwise still learning at best.

New Jersey senator basically called horse shit. Multiple at FAA too can testify too.

This is a developing story about the very real UAP problem.

—
“I’ve been meaning to reach on out to FAA, you know, like, what ‘research’ are they talking about? Like, cause they said, like, ‘it was approved by FAA for research and other things,’” Sen. Andy Kim exclusively tells Ask a Pol.

—
“Like, it made it sound like there was, like, some research project that they’re — like, as far as I know, none of that exists,” Kim says.

“I have no idea what that means.”

<https://www.askapoluaps.com/p/nj-sen-andy-kim-no-idea-trump-white-house-drone-response>

—
There is chatter amongst Senators, governors and others:

- if it was FAA then why did they hide it and let millions of dollars in taxes be used for military and police responses?

- why were our jets scrambling above Air Force bases to deal with them?

- why did we have to move our equipment to hide them from drones?

TLDR:

There were plenty of craft in the skies not sanctioned by FAA, and Trump spoke on a topic way too soon.

Over next few weeks I will share more, but multiple people in congress, CIA, FBI, and state governments have and will speak out about Trump’s comments.

Trump’s claims are not in line with the reality of this situation.