I don't get this use of the word "victim". I read somewhere on HF? (I think it was an old archived post from the guy behind WebMonitor) that LE often use this term to trigger responses. In his thread "victim" was so frequently posted that he had to react to it. lol

You're attacking someone, so that makes the person a victim.

Agreeing with the "victim" remark. Most people would say "compromised host", "breached system", or something along those lines.

The term "victim" is kind of provocative in a law-enforcement-ish way.

more commonly used to be called a slave but interchangeably used with victim as the other member above stated
