Thread: The Kanye West X-Files

Epic - February 7, 2025, 10:55 am

Kanye came to Twitter/X last and went on an hours long rant talking about his dominion over his wife, Hitler, jews, and said he is a nazi, among other things. Simply an embarrassment (mental illness aside, lol). Never liked his music personally, except that Chief Keef - Don't Like remix, that one goes pretty hard. This also isn't the first time he has had a breakdown in public!

What are your thoughts?

I used to like his music, still do in regards to some of his older stuff. It's just sad he's mentally degraded the way he has over the years in the public eye. Honestly makes me wonder if he was always this way, or if he had some sort of mental break at some point. I say that mainly because he used to not be so, uneducated and unhinged, I guess you could call it. Then again, might have just done a good job in the past at keeping it to himself.

He seems like an upstanding gentleman to me.

Yes bro, I concur. It is sad to be honest, makes me wonder if he has people around him that really do care about him. Then again, maybe he does, but he could be refusing help. I guess the fame and fortune takes a toll on the mind...

His earlier stuff went pretty hard, not gonna lie. I remember seeing him live in 2014 or so. Before the show started he got on stage and talked about how he was the greatest rapper ever, and that he didnt care about the other artists that night... but god damn was that show wild after the music started, lmao.

In just the last few minutes the guys has jumped from one topic to another even stating that he channeled Andrew Tate. I think someone needs to turn off the guys phone and get him some help since it seems like the right thing to do since he is of the deep end at this point in time. The people around him for sure are yes men and aren't able to say anything to him since the fame and fortune got to his head as well as the stuff he inhaled nitrous which has devastating long term affects on a persons brain when not under a controller environment.

Kayne = Black Donald Trump

I won't pretend to understand him but I will say that he's maintaining the spotlight and news cycles. If that's his goal then he's very successful. We don't all measure success in the same way. I don't know if his rants are trolls or if he believes them as truths but what does it matter? We are America and it's okay to say crazy shit. I don't see why his comments are so controversial. You can disagree with them but who fucking cares if Kanye thinks he's a Nazi? All this fuss every time over some perceived hurt feelings.

He's leaning so hard into the idea of being uncancellable, parading around bianca in 0 clothes, and saying outlandish shit to sell product.

Bianca is the most googled woman on earth.

Kanye made the headline on every single tabloid after saying "FREE PUFF" earlier

He found the ultimate way to move product.

All you had to do was see the articles, go to his page for conformation that it's real - if you care that much about it

And boom

Active story with links to website to sell clothing.

You're getting 62D chessed in ways you can not comprehend

(this is more of a general statemment regarding the topic - not directed at anyone)
Totally agree with this.
