The Russian Defense Ministry has showcased a first-person view (FPV) strike against a Ukrainian infantry fighting vehicle in a video released on Monday.

The footage shows the interception of the moving military vehicle from several angles, including the robotic aircraft's perspective. The kamikaze drone targeted a vulnerable section of the vehicle, circumventing the anti-drone shield that protected it from above.

Additional segments filmed from a distance captured a powerful explosion, depicted through thermal imaging and visible light. The armored vehicle was left a charred wreck, with only the lower chassis remaining relatively intact.

The military said a unit from the Zapad force carried out the strike, confirming it took place in Russia's Donetsk People's Republic (DPR).

In its regular update earlier in the day, the ministry reported ongoing combat near three settlements in the DPR, where Zapad troops had recently engaged. Their operations reportedly led to the destruction of two tanks, two infantry fighting vehicles, four military vehicles, two artillery pieces, and an electronic warfare station.

Russian forces have been making significant battlefield gains in recent months, while media reports indicate that Ukraine is struggling to achieve its military mobilization goals amid high desertion rates among conscripted recruits.

Last week, Ukrainian leader Vladimir Zelensky announced a plan to draft "volunteers" aged 18 to 24 – a group currently exempt from mandatory enlistment. Although existing laws permit these individuals to join the military, Zelensky claimed the government could offer appealing incentives, including generous salaries, to attract more recruits.

If this is allowed, I could show thousands of RU deaths in musical montages

Not sure if this is acceptable on HF though

If it is, can you let me know Omniscient

I've censored myself in many cases to not post too much, not upset certain people too much, and to avoid sharing deadly combat footage.

And I can show even more Ukrainian losses than Russian losses. It is a well known fact that Ukraine loses soldiers at the rate of 10:1 against Russia.

Do you actually believe Ukraine is winning? Really?

I didn't say they are.

But it's pretty well proven that Russia loses more troops than Ukraine on average per day. They gained less than 1% of Ukraine's territory last year, and less the year before that.

Nobody is "winning".

You can say that RU is winning a war of attrition because even though they lose more troops than Ukraine, they can afford to do that for enough time that Ukraine would lose its whole country, but this would take many more years at current pace.

Anyways, please research this piece because it's important.

1. Russia has lost more troops than Ukraine.
2. Russia has gained less than 2% of Ukraine in the last 2 years.

^ These two facts are part of the reason I share what I do. The Russian propaganda is muddying the waters where people think Ukraine has "lost" and that Russia is steamrolling them. They aren't. It's a standstill in most areas of the front, back & forth in others, and an overall gain of like 0.7% by RU last year.

If USA had stats like that, we'd be threatening our own government with a civil war if they didn't pull out.

Instead, we see Russians cheering it on, blissfully unaware of the truth.

There is no winner in Ukraine currently. Just two armies slaughtering thousands of people per week with close to 0 benefits for anyone currently.

I will be glad when this war is over and the truth is more clear.

I literally live on the border of both countries but i'm sick of arguing about it.

The truth is in its value. Funding a country, continuing to fund the country, continuing to fund the country and then the truth of why this is all happening, minerals.

Kinda getting boring. Russia isn't storming the country and winning the war in a day because they or Putin is not a war criminal.

The criminals are the ones funding it to make money... you can guess in 3 letters

Hell yeah, and we will fund Ukraine until every Russian soul is dead or gone from Ukrainian land.

Proudly & happily too I'll add.\

I'm also done arguing - This is why I choose to just share facts and when I do share my opinions, I can't sacrifice my morals for friendships anymore.

Truth matters, and only the truth matters.

The Russian war criminals will be prosecuted and hung, but it may take a decade to catch some.

The U.S. will most likely continue funding Ukraine until the last Ukrainian is dead. Given that Ukraine has an inferior army, depends on handouts, lacks money and food to feed their soldiers, and cannot take back the 5 regions they've lost, its only a matter of time before Russian soldiers enter Kiev. Trump thinks he's about to intervene and put an end to this, but I highly doubt that happens. Putin is not about to freeze this war for any reason. And literally there is nothing Trump can do to stop it. But yes, Trump wants Ukraine simply for their minerals and, like Joe Biden, he's willing to watch every last Ukrainian man die in this war to get it. This is traditional U.S. politics. They don't give one fuck about democracy or Ukrainians. They are always after a countries resources and they will kill anyone who stands in their way.

I noticed you didn't really acknowledge the fact that Russia loses more soldiers per day than Ukraine, and has lost more overall for the entire war than Ukraine has.

They do have more soldiers, so they can keep on plugging and win the war of attrition.

But the idea that Ukraine is losing or should give up is absurd.

You got 1 thing wrong:

- We won't stop if every Ukrainian is dead.

- We'll stop when every Russian soul is dead or has left Ukraine.

-----> The minerals are a fantastic incentive for protecting world peace and destroying Russia, but we should be doing it for free based on morals alone.
