Hi,

First thanks for reading my thread!

As the title said, this is a follow up on the thread IP recon. In that thread i asked a way to general question that was not really worded quite well.

After some rabbit holing on this forum i discovered that spy pixels are a thing.

Now my question is, are there any other methods that are similar to spy pixeling? so basically a way to obtain an ip address without the target visibly noticing they are being tracked.

Thanks for any input.

and no i did not get an ouija board yet.

Some of these are bunk, but it's the largest collection of methods that I know.

Most of these are either outdated or useless, thank you for your effort tho!
