

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Video of the Delta plane crash evacuation - POV - Pearson / Toronto crash on runway

Hackers - February 18, 2025, 8:41 am

<https://www.ctvnews.ca/toronto/local/peel/article/plane-with-80-people-on-board-crashes-on-landing-at-pearson-airport-ends-up-on-its-roof/>

you can watch 1 passenger's POV video as they exit the aircraft, walk away, and look back at the burning & upside down plane.

The plane landed, hit hard, skidded to the side, flipped over, and fires broke out.
All passengers survived! Woohoo!

Here is a second video that shows the crash, from perspective on the ground. You can see it land, a fire breaks out under it as it skids, and it flips over:

<https://streamable.com/sf0f3i>

.Pazuzu - February 18, 2025, 9:04 am

Credit where credit is due, the hull held up and no fatalities

Terrifying stuff, you can tell passengers are in shock as they got out, a lot carrying their carry on bags out like nothing happened

Hackers - February 18, 2025, 9:07 am

(Feb 18, 2025 10:04 AM).Pazuzu Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Credit where credit is due, the hull held up and no fatalities

Terrifying stuff, you can tell passengers are in shock as they got out, a lot carrying their carry on bags out like nothing happened

Yeah, definitely... I saw the plane company making a point of this. They credit the solid engineering for why there are no deaths. I'm sure there will need to be a full investigation into why it happened in the first place. It'll be interesting to see if the pilot is accountable / made mistakes.