

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Pope Francis

Prepper - February 22, 2025, 2:37 pm

Pope Francis has been in the hospital receiving care for initially bronchitis that developed into pneumonia in both lungs.

He has just suffered a severe asthmatic respiratory crisis and is in critical condition.

His prognosis is current "reserved" although based on the details provided and his condition if you base it on medical facts his prognosis is very serious.

While I am not a Catholic and am instead a non-denominational Christian his role is very important for Catholics around the world and I do hope he recovers.

SIM-2502833 - February 22, 2025, 2:39 pm

Pretty sure most Catholics want him to die, at least any Catholic who takes it seriously anyways.

Prepper - February 22, 2025, 2:50 pm

(Feb 22, 2025 03:39 PM)MrMcShroom Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Pretty sure most Catholics want him to die, at least any Catholic who takes it seriously anyways.

That would not be very Catholic of them. Wishing death on someone is against the Bible.

SIM-2502833 - February 22, 2025, 2:55 pm

(Feb 22, 2025 03:50 PM)Prepper Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That would not be very Catholic of them. Wishing death on someone is against the Bible.

Wow, you really talk like you know but you clearly don't.

"But whoso shall cause one of these little ones who believe in Me to fall, it were better for him that a millstone were hung about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea." -Jesus

Anyways, Pope Francis himself has been usurping the church, filling it with LGBT and abortion advocates, and destroying all thee traditional values of the church, even banning the Latin Mass for a time. He invites Africans and other religions to come do weird voodoo spiritual dances in churches, and has been seen wearing rainbow attire.

He even made arguments about giving out blessings equivalent to gay marriage, something clearly against the religion.

Truly spoken like someone who doesn't know a thing about Catholicism.

Prepper - February 22, 2025, 3:06 pm

(Feb 22, 2025 03:55 PM)MrMcShroom Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wow, you really talk like you know but you clearly don't.

"But whoso shall cause one of these little ones who believe in Me to fall, it were better for him that a millstone were hung about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea." -Jesus

Anyways, Pope Francis himself has been usurping the church, filling it with LGBT and abortion advocates, and destroying all thee traditional values of the church, even banning the Latin Mass for a time. He invites Africans and other religions to come do weird voodoo spiritual dances in churches, and has been seen wearing rainbow attire.

He even made arguments about giving out blessings equivalent to gay marriage, something clearly against the religion.

Truly spoken like someone who doesn't know a thing about Catholicism. Matthew 5:44

"But I say to you, love your enemies, bless those who curse you, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who spitefully use you and persecute you,"

The way you came off already proves to me you are not worth wasting my time with, learn to be respectful, ignored.

webdev77 - February 22, 2025, 3:15 pm

Guess the value of the pope signed bourbon is going to go up a bit now.

<https://whiskyadvocate.com/Willett-Bourbon-Signed-By-Pope-Francis>

SIM-2502833 - February 22, 2025, 3:16 pm

(Feb 22, 2025 04:06 PM)Prepper Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Matthew 5:44

"But I say to you, love your enemies, bless those who curse you, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who spitefully use you and persecute you,"

The way you came off already proves to me you are not worth wasting my time with, learn to be respectful, ignored.

People wonder why no one respects Christianity, when every Christian on earth advocates for a weak, feeble, and spineless christianity that doesn't conserve any of its values or traditions. In the case of the pope, he clearly leads little ones astray through his subtle support of everything the church has been against for 2000 years, and I don't think that the verse was meant to say that we should let our enemies control authority in our church, only saying that you should wish and try to do the best for everyone regardless of circumstance.

SIM-3970461 - March 22, 2025, 3:50 am

Fuck the pope, bro hides kid diddlers. I'm catholic but I'm sick of this religion BS. Literally the other day at a catholic church, some dude was caught tryna diddle one of the girls there. All these religious figures are sick and I am tired of it.

9779 - March 22, 2025, 4:10 am

Every pope has secrets lmao, they ain't clean.

Jamika - March 22, 2025, 12:34 pm

I'm not a Christian either, but I think the situation is serious given his age. I wish him a speedy recovery.

Prepper - March 22, 2025, 1:42 pm

Reports are that he is recovering and will be discharged from the hospital.

He is pretty lucky as that is a very serious situation for someone his age.

Kwik Trip - March 26, 2025, 12:58 am

He's out of the hospital now, but most likely will need a lot of recovery time.

Rsynced - March 26, 2025, 12:18 pm

(Feb 22, 2025 03:39 PM)SIM-2502833 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Pretty sure most Catholics want him to die, at least any Catholic who takes it seriously anyways.

Jesus Christ!

(Mar 22, 2025 03:50 AM)SIM-3970461 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Fuck the pope, bro hides kid diddlers. I'm catholic but I'm sick of this religion BS. Literally the other day at a catholic church, some dude was caught tryna diddle one of the girls there. All these religious figures are sick and I am tired of it.

Why are Catholic girls hot in those uniforms? IDK lmao?

The Joker - April 21, 2025, 2:23 am

Yes, Pope Francis's condition is certainly very concerning, especially considering the complications from bronchitis and pneumonia that have developed into a severe respiratory crisis. His health has been a topic of concern for a while now, given his age and the increasing demands of his role as the leader of the Catholic Church.

Though his prognosis is currently described as "reserved," it's always tough when someone in such a pivotal role faces such challenges, as it affects not only his immediate supporters but millions of Catholics around the world who look to him for guidance and leadership. Despite not being Catholic yourself, it's admirable that you acknowledge his significance and are hoping for his recovery, as it shows a sense of compassion beyond denominational lines.

In times like these, the world often comes together in prayers or positive thoughts for someone who holds such an influential position, as his impact reaches far beyond religion.

It'll be interesting to see how things progress, and let's hope that with medical care and the support of those around him, Pope Francis can recover.

Prepper - April 21, 2025, 7:31 am

(Apr 21, 2025 02:23 AM)The Joker Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, Pope Francis's condition is certainly very concerning, especially considering the complications from bronchitis and pneumonia that have developed into a severe respiratory crisis. His health has been a topic of concern for a while now, given his age and the increasing demands of his role as the leader of the Catholic Church.

Though his prognosis is currently described as "reserved," it's always tough when someone in such a pivotal role faces such challenges, as it affects not only his immediate supporters but millions of Catholics around the world who look to him for guidance and leadership. Despite not being Catholic yourself, it's admirable that you acknowledge his significance and are hoping for his recovery, as it shows a sense of compassion beyond denominational lines.

In times like these, the world often comes together in prayers or positive thoughts for someone who holds such an influential position, as his impact reaches far beyond religion.

It'll be interesting to see how things progress, and let's hope that with medical care and the support of those around him, Pope Francis can recover.

Although he made it out of the hospital

He passed away today at 88.