Thread: Good RATs / Crypters

Whaddup my Gs ?

I've been a lurker here for some time now and just figured that I'd make an account to finally go and ask some questions.

In general, what are some good RATs in an acceptable price range? My budget is somewhere around 100$.

Don't go and message me about how you can set me up some VPSs combined with some ultra sekrit private RAT or shieet like that.

I know a lot of free RATs but they just really aren't cutting it anymore you get me? When I'm paying I'd love for it to be lifetime.

Also, if you're dropping names please also tell me what crypter you have the best experience with when crypting <your fav RAT here>.

Thx in advance guys.

Since when did I say I was was a LONG time lurker homie? I've only been looking at a forum post here or there for the past few weeks. That's why I said I've been lurking for SOME time.

I also just figured that the RATs from some of the other threads (especially the older ones) are outdated or just not good anymore I dunno.

That's literally why I made an account. To communicate with other members?

I don't deem browsing through old inactive threads that effective tbh.

But I definiety get what you're tryna say.

So why don't you just help a beginner instead of leaving such a sarcastic remark?

Hello,

There are many Remote Administration Tools (usually free) & with $100 you should be able to get a Crypter for a month.

You can refresh the forums and you'll see what people are using.

Personally I don't want to tell you what to use and it backfire on me as they've done you dirty.

Goodluck,
