Thread: Anubis Http Loader | SELLING SOURCE AND FULL PROJECT RIGHTS

Py_Dev - March 3, 2025, 11:11 am

Hello,

I have really liked working on this project. We have come very far in a short amount of time. I just unfortunately, do not really like what this tool is capable of, and I have put many, many hours into it. It has great potential. I am posting this just to get some feelers out of what it could be worth. With this sale you will get all my current customers, telegram channel, source code for all bot builds and panel. I will stop selling and you take over. Simple as that. Im going to start very high but feel free to send me offers.

I had already guessed that this thing would have a short lifespan. Haha, it's so safe that I didn't buy it immediately.

As expected, I guessed that this project would die soon.

The project has not died? I'm still around and selling. I dont want this project to die. I want to sell to someone who wants to keep it going....

I think this is a very bad behavior.

If there are any new projects in the future, I think most people will not consider them at all.

As an author, you can make money in a very short period of time and then transfer it to someone else to run.

I think this is the death of the project.

No one will buy something that is going to be transferred to someone else.

How the successor will be updated is unknown.

As I said in the original thread, I'm trying figure out how to price the project.
