Yea i hate it when developers do that. Bethesda was really good about that when they bought the Doom series. Everything was polished when it was released. I doubt the new GTA will run smooth when it is released, rockstar doesn't have a stellar track record for that kind of thing...

Cherax is currently developing their menu to work on enhanced, no timeframe from what I've seen yet though

Yes. It's partly because kids with daddies credit cards keep buying shark cards on GTA5...so long as it's still making money why make a new one? Online was ruined almost 10 years ago with cheaters anyways. And eventually they gave up altogether on trying to combat it.

Still this type of "logic" is pathetic and no excuse in my opinion. The games almost 15 years old. Move on already.

Needless to say I'm not in a hurry to build a new PC and pre own it....maybe in a year or 2 ????

Nope not yet, but it will soon. But bans are much more severe and swift and will happen often like a Call of Duty game.

When I said mods I mainly meant SP mods because it's a massive community that have spent years developing mods

I think performance actually got worse.... Does look better though, too bad there is no modded lobby for money any more

Game is better in Enhanced version.
