

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Stock market mini-crash

Porn - March 10, 2025, 1:14 pm

Anyone picking up tsla while it is down 45% YTD? Pltr also technically down 40% so much potential upturn on these.

Tsla @$220

Pltr @$75

Tomb Raider - March 10, 2025, 2:14 pm

Not stock but I've stacked some more Litecoin on the cheap. I can see TSLA dropping some more tbh

DramaKing - March 10, 2025, 3:14 pm

Average price target is $327, so it should be a safe buy, but they haven't been doing well lately.

Aeowulf - March 10, 2025, 3:47 pm

Majority of the stock market has been overpriced for a few years. COVID made stocks... funny. I pulled all my money out in 2022. I have left a lot on the table, I just don't trust the stock market and have put my investments into physical assets.

Porn - March 10, 2025, 5:01 pm

Trump himself said there will be a disturbance in markets due to tariffs but I'm wondering if we should wait until consumers are effected by the inflation (which could be months from now).

Epic - March 11, 2025, 6:26 am

If the politicians continue on their current path, the markets will be in for a lot more hurt.

Beherit - March 12, 2025, 3:38 pm

(Mar 10, 2025 01:14 PM)Porn Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Anyone picking up tsla while it is down 45% YTD? Pltr also technically down 40% so much potential upturn on these.

Tsla @$220

Pltr @$75

PLTR looking good today, up 7% today alone. Looking at 111 MA, RSI and MACD it's a buy from me.

Noble - March 13, 2025, 9:33 am

(Mar 12, 2025 03:38 PM)Beherit Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) PLTR looking good today, up 7% today alone. Looking at 111 MA, RSI and MACD it's a buy from me.

Look at the higher time frames on PLTR, at least the Monthly and the Weekly time frames.

Are you buying PLTR to invest or to trade?

Beherit - March 13, 2025, 1:59 pm

(Mar 13, 2025 09:33 AM)Noble Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Look at the higher time frames on PLTR, at least the Monthly and the Weekly time frames.

Are you buying PLTR to invest or to trade?
To invest. I'm in it for the long-term.

Rolex Mindset - March 13, 2025, 5:48 pm

Taking full advantage of this downturn. I'm liquidating $20,000 from my MMF and moving it into the S&P.

If there's another 5% drop I'll sell a stock I've bagged on for years ($2.3k) as they aren't going to intersect any closer in price. I'm debating whether to just throw it into the S&P or to buy SSO and not be a degenerate.

If there's a serious decrease from ATH's, let's say 30%, then I'll be dropping another $10k but I don't want to impede too greatly on my emergency fund.

kinnu543 - March 14, 2025, 9:27 am

US markets are crashing, we can't predict bottom but averaging at lower levels may increase chances of capital gain in long run.

Noble - March 14, 2025, 3:15 pm

(Mar 14, 2025 10:08 AM)Lowkey Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Anyone that is thinking technical analysis in this market will play a role in what happens is a fool.

If you want to buy in, go for it.

Just know you're rolling half loaded dice & honestly I'd rather get dividend paying shares of some blue chips or if you want to be dangerous go play options on them instead for like a month or so out. Technical analysis plays an important role in the market. That's the issue; lack of education causes individuals to be impatient and buy a security to buy it without any strong reason to buy it. Buying and hoping for the best.

Noble - March 15, 2025, 11:19 am

(Mar 15, 2025 10:49 AM)Lowkey Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) %60 of retail can't tell me what Theta / Gamma is or how it works I'd be willing to bet.

Aka, I agree with you. People think lines go up and down and that's it not knowing how many moving parts a stock & its price actually have.

TA however, if I overlay a lunar phases chart and mix in a ichimoku cloud and my reverse Fibonacci sequence analyzer...

At some point it's just ridiculous.

I have a couple friends who do just fine trading using a Bloomberg terminal for early access to news / news cycles.

Understanding of option greeks and understanding of technicals are two different spectrums.

The TA models that you stated are ridiculous, that's public knowledge that many brokerages teach, along with chart patterns and indicators. The internet ran with that and it's very widely used today.

Recycled information is pushed today because that's all people know(hence why it's very popular), and don't want to do their own research and understand how the market truly works. Going against the current popular

TA information that's available to the public, it's not easy.

Support & Resistance, Indicators(which are counterintuitive, because it follows price action).

Fundamental factors are important as well when used in the right context. Way too many times, I've seen participants expect the price to skyrocket or fall based on the company's earnings alone or due to a decent/bad economic factor. Market doesn't function in that way.

Beherit - March 15, 2025, 3:09 pm

(Mar 15, 2025 01:11 PM)Lowkey Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I used ridiculous examples because this is a ridiculous conversation.

You're telling me technical analysis matters when Elon Musk can literally raise his arm (and because retards that still care about 400 years ago in history during bad times)

- And TANK the share price overnight..

Regardless of how much you'd like to keep pretending your support or resistance lines matter.

Man I day-traded for YEARS don't swing at me with that 'investopedia' lingo bullshit and think because you pointed out how dramatic my examples were you have any idea what you're talking about.

Shits a joke. Be honest with the people that will be reading this.

I'm waiting for Alex Karp to raise his right arm as well ;)

Noble - March 15, 2025, 6:19 pm

(Mar 15, 2025 01:11 PM)Lowkey Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I used ridiculous examples because this is a ridiculous conversation.

You're telling me technical analysis matters when Elon Musk can literally raise his arm (and because retards that still care about 400 years ago in history during bad times)

- And TANK the share price overnight..

Regardless of how much you'd like to keep pretending your support or resistance lines matter.

Man I day-traded for YEARS don't swing at me with that 'investopedia' lingo bullshit and think because you pointed out how dramatic my examples were you have any idea what you're talking about.

Shits a joke. Be honest with the people that will be reading this.

I don't use support and resistance lines, haha. Just because you lack understanding of TA, does not mean it does not work. You might think understanding and reading markets is impossible because you have no clue what's going on, and that's why you downplay it.

Elon can tweet all he wants, but the technicals remain the same.

Porn - April 4, 2025, 11:43 am

Back to where we started 3 weeks ago, tsla trading higher since its basically a meme stock right now.

Tsla @$239

Pltr @$73

jaytench - April 6, 2025, 12:20 am

TA is just astrology for men. There's no chart alive that would have shown Tesla going up as much as it has done for e.g.