Does anyone know how I make a publication to be seen by the community or do I have to do a whole journey?

Tha Sneak - March 11, 2025, 12:38 am

You absolutely have to do the whole journey my friend.

Sure, how do I do it? I don't know much about that either, but I imagine that helping is necessary.

What do you want to accomplish?

What is your goal?

Learn as much information as possible to survive. I want to go straight with this, since at least my head makes me believe that it will be necessary. My goal is to know about computers, how money works here on the Internet, and to know what things I will need regarding security. Brother, I don't want to be left behind. I only know how to make tortillas and wash dishes, hahaha. I don't want to be left with just that.

Excuse me sir if my answer is somewhat stupid, I hope I don't exhaust your patience.

Gosh I do love me some handmade tortillas though...stuff chile verde in that shit ??

Anyways get yourself a cheap laptop and install Linux and start playing around and learning that.

You must learn to play catch-up now, and luckily, the world is always evolving, new things are always coming into creation. You must find something that you are interested in that is new and upcoming, where there is opportunity. For me, it is artificial intelligence, search engines, and social media. All of these combined provide an ecosystem of opportunity and learning experiences, no matter what level you're on. The fact that you are here in the first place shows that you are in the right direction. Make the right choices because time will pass no matter what.

I think this comment pretty much covers everything I wanted to say.

I will just add that if you're looking for shortcuts, which you may easily find in this forum, don't go that way. Sounds like you're a Newbie to the internet, and there's so much here. As said, choose your path, decide what you want to learn and focus on that specific topic. There are plenty of guides out there, courses on websites for very cheap or even free on the network/torrents. Think about it, and if you need any help or guidance, let me know and I'll be happy to help if I can.

Yes, I know I'm too behind but I want to do the best I can, having a computer and internet access is a huge advantage and I wouldn't want to waste it just watching nonsense, I want to learn about artificial intelligence and social networks, I hear about it every time I go on Instagram, I want to know more and how to squeeze it out. I was looking for pages to change my voice and make audio commercials for informal businesses here in my city, although I also wanted to know if I could learn how to do something with the food stamp card from my last job so I wouldn't go hungry hehe, I don't know much about this world, I only have that very vague idea that old movies said about you, people with incredible skills when it comes to computers and technology.

I hope this is understandable sir, I'm not looking to be a hacking master, or learn how to make money like a crazy person, I just want to know how to make the most of this world, how to keep eating, how to stay up to date. I'm not ashamed of how I grew up, where I grew up or what jobs I had, I just don't want to be left behind.

I really appreciate it, if I'm a newbie, I don't really look for shortcuts like getting money in accounts (I say this because I saw a post like that while I was looking around the page) thanks for your offer sir, I hope not to bother you with my questions in the future.

If you need help with something like presence, support on a page or similar, don't hesitate, I also want to participate to learn, at the moment I have a lot of free time.

You can start with free courses on Coursera or YouTube

For voice changing, try Voicemod or ElevenLabs

For audio editing, use Audacity or Adobe Audition

Stay curious and keep learning

Thank you very much, now that I know that Audacity is recommended, I am going to use it. Regarding the courses, programs and websites, I hope to get to that point. Sometimes I get a little scared because when I see the prices of the most basic subscriptions and convert them to my currency, it is two or three weeks' worth of food.

I have an HP 240, it's a bit old but the son of a friend of my father cleaned it and fixed it, the truth is it's a bit broken, do you think it will work? It always has to be connected, the battery doesn't work hahaha

Have a look there

LMAO!! yeah he should learn how to use AI and cheat like the rest of them... no need to learn anything.

Just copy and paste code of other's work.

Why do you want to know about computers? Do you know how to use one? Do you mean make software or to learn how to use a computer?

How money works on the internet? it's straight forward. Just use something like PayPal. All it is ... are banks and other financial institutions that move money around on your behalf. What do you want to know about money online and how it works? Are you asking to start your own bank online?

If that is that case then that's a lot of info and will take years to learn. It's nothing but regulations and laws and using computers that integrates to the ATM networks to process financial transactions. To do this you have to be either a bank or a financial institution like payment processor.

If you want to learn how to write a program then go online and find tutorials and videos talking about c and C++ find a programming language and just start from there.

Old Chinese proverb say "The journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step."

The battery on a laptop with a model number that low should be easily replaceable if you can find one.

Yes, in fact I want to get out of physical jobs (that's why I left my previous job) I insist, I don't want to live a great life using what I learned in this place, just start with all the positive things I can find on the internet. Many people talk about cybersecurity, platforms, use of artificial intelligence for jobs, investments, improvements in the quality of life, smart shopping. I try to inform myself and do what I can with PayPal, GBM, NU, (the truth is I still don't understand well but I hope to learn, hahaha I downloaded several videos on how to speak English and I'm trying to use my head to read and understand the page)

I don't want to be a bank, I don't have that kind of vision or goal, much less do I think I have that kind of ability or potential, if I'm honest I even have problems with doing multiplications or even additions, that really scares me. I intend to understand for example how they use Paypal, or some other safe way to store and use the little money I have for now (245.70 dollars, according to the converter)

Bro, I really just want to get a little further and not get left behind with everything I always see coming. I admit that I have problems with my concentration and all that, I also don't have much money and the body that I thought would help me keep working now seems to be falling apart. Sorry if at any point this seems or sounds like a miserable attempt at pity, it's not, I just want to be honest with the few abilities I have and with the desire I have to go back home to help a little or maybe a lot.

I don't know much about you either, I had responded to someone that I only know about you from those old movies, people with skills that only use computers to almost dominate everything technological, electronic and more. Even in my head the idea of asking someone if there was a way to teach me how to add funds to a food card that they gave me at my last job, it's a kind of card that only works to make purchases in some establishments, I wanted to specify that it was only for food.

I'm sorry if my answers are stupid or even something that only a naive or ignorant person can formulate in his head.
