

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: SPRAYING THE SKIES OF ST PETE FLORIDA

Rsynced - March 15, 2025, 1:48 pm

I see this stuff all the time. They do turn on and off, so it just doesn't seem like normal contrails. You can see planes that are not 'spraying' and they have normal contrails. Maybe it is simply a different type of jet fuel being used that causes this 'POLLUTION'?

Either way, it does suck because they ruin the sky and make everything seem dull and depressing. It's ugly cause you know the sky should have puffy clouds and look normal, but this just looks like shit.

Seems to be one of the biggest mysteries / secrets in the world right in front of your face.

Check Instagram video below:

https://www.instagram.com/jimbreyer_official/reel/DHL6sf3sxEq/

Pr0m3th3us - March 15, 2025, 3:48 pm

I don't know much about planes but That's horrible if all that haze/clouds is caused by the byproduct of the planes engines.

But ya know my 2.2l 4cyl gas Kia engine produces so many hydrocarbons i have to pay to have it "inspected" every year. Pathetic.

DramaKing - March 15, 2025, 4:02 pm

There are private/aerobatic planes that can turn contrails on and off, like to draw designs in the sky. The composition should be just water vapor like regular clouds.

Flan. - March 15, 2025, 5:11 pm

Yeah, I've noticed those too. It's definitely a strange phenomenon. Thanks for sharing the Instagram video, I'll check it out!

Half the Great - March 15, 2025, 5:26 pm

(Mar 15, 2025 04:02 PM)DramaKing Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There are private/aerobatic planes that can turn contrails on and off, like to draw designs in the sky. The composition should be just water vapor like regular clouds.

That's a mineral oil that is used for air shows that is injected into the exhaust to help pilots coordinate with one another while also giving spectators a visible trail to follow.

Those smoke trails differ from contrails and typically dissipate within a few seconds.

Komodo - March 15, 2025, 5:31 pm

So they aren't teaching shit in schools anymore huh

Beherit - March 15, 2025, 6:35 pm

Those chemtrails be going crazy these days.

julieandreiham - March 15, 2025, 7:58 pm

yeah I honestly think its great

DramaKing - March 15, 2025, 8:00 pm

(Mar 15, 2025 05:26 PM)Classified Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's a mineral oil that is used for air shows that is injected into the exhaust to help pilots coordinate with one another while also giving spectators a visible trail to follow.

Those smoke trails differ from contrails and typically dissipate within a few seconds.
Good to know. I don't think that mineral oil will be used for population reduction.

I see nothing to suggest that regular contrails will not take hours to dissipate. It's likely that there's a scientific atmospheric explanation for contrails seeming to stop and start. What are the chances that there is a grand, decades-long conspiracy to spray chemicals from jet engines that has left no actual proof.

Beherit - March 15, 2025, 8:49 pm

(Mar 15, 2025 07:58 PM)julieandreiham Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) yeah I honestly think its great Great?! You mean they look cool or what

Pikachu - March 15, 2025, 10:33 pm

You're in St Pete? If you're ever in the Orlando area let's get a drink.

Rsynced - March 15, 2025, 11:38 pm

(Mar 15, 2025 10:33 PM)Pikachu Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You're in St Pete? If you're ever in the Orlando area let's get a drink.

Thanks for the offer but I don't drink anymore, Florida drinking has taken it's toll on me ?

N604 - March 16, 2025, 12:56 am

That has happened for years here in my country. It is called Climate Engineering or Geo Engineering, it "helps" with crops and the global warming. What does it actually do? Who knows. Some says it spreads small metal shreds into the air and some other serious shitty materials to inhale.

Rsynced - March 16, 2025, 12:59 am

(Mar 16, 2025 12:56 AM)N604 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That has happened for years here in my country. It is called Climate Engineering or Geo Engineering, it "helps" with crops and the global warming. What does it actually do? Who knows. Some says it spreads small metal shreds into the air and some other serious shitty materials to inhale.

I have heard of this and believe this is what it does. Just do not like the fact that no one knows about it publicly and the safety of just what exactly they are spraying is unknown and concerning.

N604 - March 16, 2025, 1:01 am

(Mar 16, 2025 12:59 AM)Rsynced Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have heard of this and believe this is what it does. Just do not like the fact that no one knows about it publicly and the safety of just what exactly they are spraying is unknown and concerning.

That's true. As always, if you talk about it, people will think you're silly or crazy. It's just another simple demonstration like the Corona Virus if you ask me, although it's a different comparison, but well, that's at least what I think.

Rsynced - March 16, 2025, 1:12 am

(Mar 16, 2025 01:01 AM)N604 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's true. As always, if you talk about it, people will think you're silly or crazy. It's just another simple demonstration like the Corona Virus if you ask me, although it's a different comparison, but well, that's at least what I think.

Yes nobody seems concerned about it. Most people I have talked to about the subject do acknowledge it but always change the subject. I think everyone is afraid of it because it is out of their control.

Pikachu - March 16, 2025, 6:48 am

(Mar 15, 2025 11:38 PM)Rsynchronized Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thanks for the offer but I don't drink anymore, Florida drinking has taken its toll on me ?

I only ever drink on special occasions like if I'm at a concert or festival or hanging out with friends but I'm not very much of a drinker myself.

Rsynchronized - March 16, 2025, 12:02 pm

(Mar 16, 2025 06:48 AM)Pikachu Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I only ever drink on special occasions like if I'm at a concert or festival or hanging out with friends but I'm not very much of a drinker myself.

Thanks for considering me a special occasion ?

I am an alcoholic and have had my fill of concerts, festivals, and keg parties.

I really don't miss it. The high/buzz from alcohol is so dirty and overwhelming. I sometimes wonder what exactly drove me to drink so much. I really did not enjoy it that much.