Thread: Post your internet speed - 2025 edition

Cyber Rick - March 24, 2025, 5:35 pm

Just upgraded my home internet a few weeks ago. Full 10Gbps (Unifi setup) LAN plus 8Gbps WAN. Paying ~$60 USD equivalent per month. Curious what kind of internet HF users have these days.

I was trying to be funny. Those speeds are insane.

Pr0m3th3us - March 24, 2025, 5:44 pm

I have the slowest and cheapest option around....

kad - March 24, 2025, 5:49 pm

My download is around 940mbps and upload is 100mbps. I pay £50 a month but I get the mobile benefits etc.

Holy smokes that's quite a gap....i might only get 300mbps down but I get the same up...

webdev77 - March 24, 2025, 5:52 pm

Oh, we're going to play that way today huh?

For the lolz \(Click to View\)

I don't have fast internet so I'll just pretend I can borrow this server.

M1L3NK0 - March 24, 2025, 5:58 pm

Slowest internet I've had in the last decade. I miss being able to buy my own internet plan.

jcole - March 24, 2025, 6:05 pm

I pay for 1gbit fiber, but never get the true speed. Internet in my area is a scam.

Do you ever get a full gig? I never do.

we are on large gigacenter skyrise plan so i think there is at least 1 node on site

I haven't looked, but I wonder if the hardware my ISP provided cannot even push a full gbit.

Quote:Supports internet plans up to 2.5 Gbps I'm hard wired in, but never get a full gbit. Weird

I used to have a internet speed of 10-15mbps download and 1mbps upload for over 13 years, I decided to upgrade my internet plans this year, it's a huge difference and for the price if I convert it to USD it's around 65$ for 1gbps.

That actually made me laugh out loud. Wtf are those numbers?!

Anyway, on topic:

Doug Dimmadome - March 24, 2025, 7:44 pm

Unfortunately limited by my wifi. I pay $110/month for gig/40

Back in 2016ish, I had 3mpbs/768kbps and the download speed would rarely hit what was promised lol. There were no other providers in the area, just shitty unreliable DSL

vyactor - March 24, 2025, 7:44 pm

Y'all got some crazy ass speed right there. I pay for 350Mbps internet and I get around 200ish on the download and around 100ish on the upload.

Seems to be quite common with ISPs here in the UK :/
I don't really upload much anyway.

Cap - March 24, 2025, 8:29 pm

I live in the boondocks and don't have many options for internet. My download speed is about 250Mbps and upload speed is between 20 and 50Mbps. I can't wait for the day to upgrade.

EINSTEEN - March 24, 2025, 8:47 pm

I have 1HP (Horse Power) down and 0.5 HP up.

I live in the best country in the world: Europe.

Seriously I don't know anything about speeds. I am grateful for whatever content coming out of the hose in the wall at any given moment, be it electro power or Internet power.

Tyr - March 24, 2025, 8:58 pm

Husktools - March 24, 2025, 9:46 pm

4mbps and i pay around 35$, i wanna save money to buy the 16mbps speed for 60$/month, my country is a scam:({

Mclaffe - March 24, 2025, 11:06 pm

Damn, your speed 7 Gbps is insane, bro.

Chrome - March 24, 2025, 11:49 pm

I get around 700-900 down and 100 up.

TheGoldenRelik - March 25, 2025, 12:10 am

100/10 and about 7ms of ping

Beherit - March 25, 2025, 12:15 am

500 Down, 25 Up. Constipated upload speed. Need some fibre.

11 ping.

Bastille - March 25, 2025, 2:14 am

Almost 8Gb/s is crazy

I'm quite satisfied with mine, I pay for a 400Mb but as I had many issues with my Internet connection over years (during one incident I lost my connection for more than 3 months) so they've upgraded it for free.

But I never download at more than 100Mb/s for like videogames and so on, everything is limited on servers' side to avoid being saturated. I guess that 1Gb is useful if you host servers, watch 4k movies on platforms like Netflix in a family of 10

Proof - March 25, 2025, 9:58 am

For 60 USD a month? Sign me the fuck up.

?inimalist - March 25, 2025, 11:03 am

I think I have the lowest internet ?

Rsynced - March 25, 2025, 11:05 am

That's insane! Only $60 a Month?

Envy - March 25, 2025, 12:56 pm

Ain't no 7K mbps but

Typically if you call and complain about that shit they'll send a technician over, I had to do the same

It's common for it to also be bottlenecked / throttled based on your area might be worth a call, complaining usually fixes the issue

Also look at resource manager / task manager make sure nothing undesired is sucking up bandwidth ?

XtremeDiscount - March 25, 2025, 1:04 pm

wow may I ask how much you paid for that speed? The actual price not what the service provider tells you before the hidden fees that are just "fees" and unavoidable taxes haha

Anonymous_X - March 25, 2025, 1:32 pm

My cellular

Not good, but not bad. It should reach up to 1gbps.

I actually pay for 8Gbps up and down not 7 lol. I'm getting throttled by the ISP modem which they force me to use. I have a way to bypass it but need to hire an electrician to run some fiber to my office.

Come to Canada lol (don't I'm kidding. Place sucks. I'd move to USA in a heartbeat). I'm with Bell over here.

apartment I also get a slightly better rate plus an ongoing promotional credit. Normally without any promotions the plan is $140ish CAD per month.

Rsynced - March 25, 2025, 5:35 pm

Just tested.

230dl / 30ul

On wifi right now.

Crystal Lord - March 26, 2025, 7:18 am

Today isn't as good of a day than the last time I posted my results, so here you go:

blackhat314 - April 10, 2025, 9:13 am

My dumbass, when living with my folks, had paid them to upgrade the internet one day only to realize it was already the highest we had available in the sticks. The speed was like quarter the rate we expected with a lot of fluctuation so we called to see if we could upgrade our modem. Come to find out a week later with a tech arriving, that our comms wire to the house and the telecom box or whatever itself was bad. 1 hour fix later and after paying full price for years we finally had good internet lol. Thank god I wasn't the one paying
