

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Numbers i can use to send 1 SMS to a chinese number.

November - April 8, 2025, 12:56 am

Apologies if the title sounds a bit off. I'm trying to sign up for an app called Zalo.

It's similar to WhatsApp but mainly used in Vietnam. The annoying part is that you don't just input your phone number and receive a code.

Instead, you have to enter a phone number and then send THEM an SMS with the code they provide.

I've been struggling to find a service that allows this. I tried Google Voice, but it doesn't support international SMS.

If you offer a service like this, I'm interested in purchasing access on a per-number basis.
[contract=tid]Start Contract[/contract]

November - April 9, 2025, 2:42 am

Still looking for something like this cosmocheats - April 10, 2025, 8:16 am

(Apr 8, 2025 12:56 AM)November Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Apologies if the title sounds a bit off. I'm trying to sign up for an app called Zalo.

It's similar to WhatsApp but mainly used in Vietnam. The annoying part is that you don't just input your phone number and receive a code.

Instead, you have to enter a phone number and then send THEM an SMS with the code they provide.

I've been struggling to find a service that allows this. I tried Google Voice, but it doesn't support international SMS.

If you offer a service like this, I'm interested in purchasing access on a per-number basis.
[contract=tid]Start Contract[/contract]

Yeah, Zalo's signup method is a bit tricky with that outbound SMS requirement. Most typical SMS services won't support that. You'll likely need a provider that offers full SIM hosting or virtual numbers with 2-way SMS capability.

VoizagBOT - April 10, 2025, 12:36 pm

I am not sure completely but I have friend From China , I can help you possibly on this.

ApexForma - June 2, 2025, 9:00 pm

i do this service you can pay after done