Black Mirror season 7 is out now.

There is anyone who is fan of this show?

I really love it and these is so many messages about future!

The moment I saw what is obviously a sequel to U.S.S. Callister I was sold. Can't wait for the weekend so I can sit down and watch them all.

I still haven't seen the previous episodes. I need to start catching up or perhaps I will just skip and go straight for the latest one.

Every season have different stories. Every episode is different story. So you have to watch it from first episode ,first season to understand the concept of the show.

It's insane. Trust me.

I don't remember the last one I watched actually. I remember it being about a paedophile and it was pretty fucking brutal.

Re-watch it if you have time. It's worth 100%.

First couple seasons were great. Once Netflix bought it and ownership rights moved to the U.S. started going downhill. Started getting less technological in some sense.

I really liked the first episode, it was sad and felt close to reality. The second one, though, was all over the place, with her suddenly changing reality using some device. I've only seen the first two episodes so far.

Thank you for the Info! I haven't seen anything about the new season anywhere so I didn't know it was out until now!

Black Mirror messes with my head so much, but that's what makes it so fun to watch! Such a great show.

I love the new season! My favorite episode of the new season is "Plaything". There is also an app to play the game in the episode.

I heard 'Plaything' took inspiration from 'Serial Experiments Lain', if you like that episode maybe the anime is something for you.

Season 5 & 6 were underwhelming to say the least, I'll give the new season a shot later this week.

Watched the lot day after release as I've been huge fan of it since it first aired.

Whilst 3 was a weak one for me, I liked the others. 2 was nice imho but reminded me of Phillip K Dick's writing (Flow my tears?), but the first episode was absolutely superb, and so bleak, it was my favourite by miles.

Ooo I know what I'm doing this weekend! More reason to procrastinate thesis
