Mom gets drunk crashes car & leaves four year old to drown irrigation canal while taking drunken bath.

Prosecutors alleged that Acosta's blood alcohol level was almost three times the legal limit when she crashed, and that she left her car while her daughter, Reagan Herrin, was still trapped inside.

Gil Somera, Acosta's attorney said that he did not believe his client should be charged with murder.

She intentionnally drunk, she intentionnally drove, she intentionally killed her child. Next case.

This world is becoming Idiocracy, people don't even know what's being parent means. We need to stop finding excuses to those idiots. That's how the popuation become assisted and dumber.

The first two are true. The third her defense can try and argue. But even if you're drunk half out of your mind if you're a mother and you're sober up enough to get out of the water you'd think you would also be scrambling to pull your baby girl out too.

I'm an alcoholic. I reach 3 times the legal multiple times a week. I still have the wherewithal to know not to drive. If I have to go run errands or something I do it before I start drinking. I never understood why people go out and drink at bars and whatnot. And with uber nowadays it's crazy people still drive.

Bet you could remember to fish your three year old girl out of the water too?

Damn, it's horrible to keep hearing about neglectful parents lost in addictions or problems that only they cause. Sometimes I don't want news like this to keep appearing (I'm not trying to deny reality) it just hurts to think about those poor children with no options and an extremely hard life.

I guess they don't want to spend the money on an Uber and would rather spend it on a crashed car and a law suit or they can make bank making license plates after they accidently kill someone.
