Thread: How to verify ownership of a x.com account, will this method work?

Recently i lost access to my x.com account and it seems to be impossible to recover my account. The only method to verify is point the support to the 200M Twitter Leak and show the entry for my account. The Twitter Leak data show the number of followers, username and email associated and i have control over the email. (No phone number associated)

Will this method work?

So what's happens when u just try recover password, or press link on your mail where it says "If it wasn't u press here".

Initiate a password recovery for my new account.
