Thread: hacking animal jam accounts lettuce827 - April 17, 2025, 9:34 pm does anyone have any tips for this? the only method ive found is using the 2020 data breach as a starting point and checking if their old password was leaked but most users have changed their password by now so this is unreliable and, frankly, very time consuming to manually check.

any automated ways?

im more-so looking for a way to target specific players rather than cracking tons of random usernames and passwords at once.

thanks.

Welcome to the forum, sorry I can't help with this but I'm sure someone will post.

Neopets? What information are you looking for? a specific account or?

Damn, I haven't heard anyone mention Animal Jam in ages. I'm sure they've upped their security since the data breach. Your best bet is to find inactive accounts and use the 2020 data passwords. There are tools you can find to automate it (I had one for Roblox) but they're prob outdated by now.

Hey! If you are still looking to get into accounts. I am the founder of Veiled Claws, a small hacking group for Animaljam. We primarily focus on Classic, however, our program works on the parent dashboard which allows us to access any account type. If you are somewhat knowledgeable on Python code and would like to you join us, our discord is veildedclaws and our instagram is veilded.claws. We look forward to hearing from you!
