Thread: Daughter Went Shopping After Thinking She Murdered Both Parents for Evicting Her

The Pact - April 21, 2025, 5:21 am

Christina Anne Adams stabbed her parents at their shared home in 2022 after they told her she had to leave the residence. The Florida woman's mother survived however. There is nothing anywhere that says she's trans and yet she looks so trans. But she does have a wife. I'm not saying any of that matters or is relevant to the case, but my God she looks like a man, but no article says she's trans.

The thirty three year old said she was angry that her parents were kicking her out, so she ran and stabbed them both multiple times. After stabbing her parents until she believed they were both dead, a Florida woman left the scene to shop. What she didn't know was that her father had a bit more time left — and her mother would make it out alive.

Adams said that after she believed her parents to be dead, she “attempted to destroy evidence and then left the location,” the MCSO said in a statement at the time, per ABC News. She also told detectives that after the attack, “she changed her clothing and went shopping.”
