Hello everyone I'm new to the scene and been killing time in the Feds if your curious what's life like at a federal camp feel free to ask , however I'm seeking hexaflash and a tutorial how to flash a score 7t tablet by Keefe group. I found someone on telegram that sent me the zip file but it was password protected and couldn't be extracted and unfortunately I got scammed out of $130 but you live and learn and karma comes around. Hope to meet some like minded and intelligent individuals

Hello, welcome to HF

You're not the first one asking for ways to jailbreak this kind of device, people mostly ask for JP tablets. So far I've never seen someone sharing a working method, I see a lot of people sharing TG and Discord to start messaging off-site, which is often the pattern to start a scam. I'm sorry for your loss by the way.

If you plan to deal on HF be aware that we have a contract feature, check out credibility rating for trustworthy, don't forget to use a middle-man, and of course to read the Help Docs.

Enjoy your stay !

_VOX - April 24, 2025, 1:10 am

If you're going to do any deals with members here, make sure it's all on-site!

It is not recommended to use other services like tg or discord. Have a look at the contract feature.

It's not that bad if your at a camp where I am and all fed camps differ some are better some are ass, but overall it's not that bad if you stay to yourself , theirs still segregation between skin colors and as friendly as people are , you cant trust no one , best thing ive learned so far is to play both sides and be independent and make a routine for yourself , time will fly by, don't annoy COs and staff the more you fuck with them the more they'll delay your time here and give you hell, control your emotions and let people win arguments and disputes even if your wrong , theirs a lot of hardheaded stubborn people here that are afraid of change and won't even better themselves . And also they gossip like your in highschool if you fart everyone will talk about it , foods not bad if you work in the kitchen you get access to a lot of foods but every job here has its perks

don't they do random searches for phones and stuff?

Some officers do but most don't and we all kinda notify each other when we see them coming and hide them and yea depends on the officer if he feels like doing a random search that day and being a dick he'll do it , but we learn their movements and routines over time. You have to know which ones you can get away from and you don't necessarily get more time you get a 100 series shot, which is basically a write up and if you get too many of those they transfer you to a low security prison or even sometimes a medium security prison depending on your custody point level and they can also punish you by putting you in the SHU (SPECIAL HOUSONG UNIT) basically a room with nothing but a book and one other bunkie and no outside time and they can take away your commissary privileges , phone access and visitation access Smarter thing to do is have this type of stuff prepared BEFORE you go in.

It's actually against BOP policy to do any kind of upper body work and people at camps actually gain weight here and don't really workout it's usually people in medium or low facility that workout religiously (Apr 26, 2025 12:45 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Smarter thing to do is have this type of stuff prepared BEFORE you go in.

Of course I agree but each place you go too has different things and tablets and you kinda go into the blind with a lot...unless you know someone that's already been there , plus the mental stress leading up to your sentencing it doesn't matter how much of a strong willed and minded person you are if it's your first bid it'll take a toll on you.

That's a pretty stupid look at it. Are you assuming all prisoners need the shu?
The best therapy comes from keeping your body active, after that, talking to someone.
The routine builds discipline. It also exerts frustration, like a hamster on a wheel.

Welcome to the forum man.

Sorry to hear about your incarceration.. but, we live and and we learn as you said. How much time are you looking at? I don't know much about hacking tablets, but I'm quite sure there a few people here that could point you in the right direction.

Gotta be careful when it comes to purchasing things off Telegram. That platform is filled with scammers, and individuals looks to making a quick buck by any means necessary. I would only purchase things off people that you personally know, or that have been referred to you by someone that you trust. I noticed you said the tablet was by Keefe Group - is that the same Keefe that supplies the prison with all it's commissary and stuff? If yes, then it may be a little more difficult to find people who are familiar with it. If I'm correct, there is another user on here who says they're locked in the Feds.. maybe he can help you out, or at minimum point you in the right direction.

Good luck man

I can't remember the users username, but I remember speaking to him like maybe 6 - 9 months ago or so. He was a partially active user on here, who would ask for help with hacking his federal tablet. I tried to search for some of his old posts, but I can't find them. I remember him leaving a post saying something like if he's not active, to please not delete his account, as he may not always be able access the site.. so I'm not exactly sure what happened to him. I know some of these other users know who I'm referring to.. as he was fairly active, and seemed like a pretty decent fella. Whether they'll actually be willing to help you find out which user it is, is up in the air... guess it depends on what side of the bed they wake up on. Wish I could help you a little more, but as I said I can't even find his old posts.

Hey there, welcome to the forum! Sorry to hear about the scam—that's rough, but you're right, live and learn. Thanks for sharing about your experience at the federal camp; I'm sure folks here would love to hear more about what it's like if you're up for sharing.

As for the Score 7T tablet, I feel you on wanting to unlock its potential. Those Keefe tablets are locked down tight for prison use, and flashing them is tricky business. From what I've seen online, the Score 7 series uses a custom, stripped-down Android OS with serious security, like NSA-level encryption and a "mortality timer" that requires kiosk syncing every 30 days. There's chatter on places like XDA Forums about unlocking bootloaders with tools like mtkclient, but it's hit-or-miss—messing with partitions like lk or preloader can brick the device or kill the display. Some folks have sent tablets back to Keefe for a $25 fee to remove security software after release, but that's only useful on the outside.

The hexaflash tool you mentioned pops up in sketchy corners of the web, often tied to scams like the one you ran into. Legit tutorials are scarce, and most "guides" are either incomplete or bait for more scams. If you've still got access to that zip file, double-check the source—maybe someone here can point you to a safer way to verify it. Be super cautious about sharing personal info or sending money again.

Since you're looking to connect, maybe share what you're hoping to do with the tablet if you get it flashed—apps, games, or something else? Could help folks point you in the right direction. Also, anyone else here messed with Keefe tablets or know a solid lead on flashing tools? Let's get this guy some real help.

Hm, i can tell you one thing - it is possible to do from the phone. Pretty complicated hack, combined (hw + sw) and can be done in feds.

I was able to put lineage 17.1 on it with everything (wifi, bluetooth) working. Lineage 17.1 - regular gsi image, took me around a year to tune it up. Security soft on this tab done by ATG by the way, really good job on their side.

Now, they updated these tabs a little, from hw - ca01 to hw - cb01 and my old setup has problems with wifi and bluetooth, everything else still works.

This info just for general knowledge, to encourage some ppl to look, try....

Im not selling anything, so plz dont disturb me.

I did post proof on that tg channel, just for hell out of it :)
