

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: A Boy with Autism "Threw Too Many Crayons" his preschool teacher getting locked up.

The Pact - May 6, 2025, 3:06 am

A preschool teacher claimed an autistic four year old had thrown too many crayons. She was arrested after security footage showed her forcefully grabbed and drag a 4-year-old boy with autism to the ground.

48-year-old Alice Wood was taken into custody after allegedly admitting her actions were "excessive" and claiming she "regretted doing it" — but not before she initially blamed the 4-year-old boy for throwing "one too many crayons" at her.

The boy's behavioral technician at the school had left the classroom to use the bathroom when the alleged assault took place.

security footage, showed Wood grabbing the boy's arms and dragging him at least three feet before throwing him on the ground.

The outlet reported that the boy's behavioral technician told police the boy never posed any danger to anyone else.

777 - May 6, 2025, 3:09 am

(May 6, 2025 03:06 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) A preschool teacher claimed an autistic four year old had thrown too many crayons. She was arrested after security footage showed her forcefully grabbed and drag a 4-year-old boy with autism to the ground.

48-year-old Alice Wood was taken into custody after allegedly admitting her actions were "excessive" and claiming she "regretted doing it" — but not before she initially blamed the 4-year-old boy for throwing "one too many crayons" at her.

The boy's behavioral technician at the school had left the classroom to use the bathroom when the alleged assault took place.

security footage, showed Wood grabbing the boy's arms and dragging him at least three feet before throwing him on the ground.

The outlet reported that the boy's behavioral technician told police the boy never posed any danger to anyone else.

Thats insane...but it doesn't top that crazy chick thattook a knife and slashed at a random child's face...WHILE they are holding their fathers hand. Its an old video but still

The Pact - May 6, 2025, 3:33 am

(May 6, 2025 03:09 AM)7??7?? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thats insane...but it doesn't top that crazy chick thattook a knife and slashed at a random child's face...WHILE they are holding their fathers hand. Its an old video but still

Or the nanny that killed two kids because when she asked for extra money her boss offered housework for extra earning instead of just a raise. Or that man that tossed a 5 year old he didn't know off a balcony at Mall of a America just to try and kill someone. The kid lived.

777 - May 6, 2025, 3:38 am

(May 6, 2025 03:33 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Or the nanny that killed two kids because when she asked for extra money her boss offered housework for extra earning instead of just a raise. Or that man that tossed a 5 year old he didn't know off a balcony at Mall of a America just to try and kill someone. The kid lived.

Or the woman that put her baby in a microwave and the one that crashed their car in a body of water, then left their child still strapped in and stuck....both cases ended in fatality...so many crazy cases man,,,its so sad that we can go back and forth endlessly...it will never stop ?

Rsynced - May 6, 2025, 5:27 am

(May 6, 2025 03:38 AM)7??7?? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Or the woman that put her baby in a microwave and the one that crashed their car in a body of water, then left their child still strapped in and stuck....both cases ended in fatality...so many crazy cases man,,,its so sad that we can go back and forth endlessly...it will never stop ?

wtf man, I guess I always miss these news stories for the best...

The Pact - May 6, 2025, 8:11 pm

(May 6, 2025 03:09 AM)7??7?? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thats insane...but it doesn't top that crazy chick that took a knife and slashed at a random child's face...WHILE they are holding their fathers hand. Its an old video but still

I would compare this more to other crimes perpetuated against the disabled and against special needs kids by psycho teaching staff. Teachers' colleges make up bullshit reasons to keep countries in a constant state of teacher shortages, and yet they never block the right people they only block white people at random to try and show exclusivity based on total bullshit.

ariluvs - May 18, 2025, 6:43 pm

i dont understand, why watch after kids with autism if u cant handle the autism ??

Dennis - May 19, 2025, 12:02 am

(May 6, 2025 03:06 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 48-year-old Alice Wood was taken into custody after allegedly admitting her actions were "excessive" and claiming she "regretted doing it" ...

Crazy. Stop putting women in position of power.

The Pact - May 19, 2025, 12:27 am

(May 19, 2025 12:02 AM)Dennis Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Crazy. Stop putting women in position of power.

??? Touché you got me on that one. I hope you're doing well. What a freak that woman is though. She doesn't look much like one either.

Pr0m3th3us - May 19, 2025, 12:28 am

Throwing crayons is generally not considered a danger to someones life. Unless your in California, according to them everything causes cancer....

The Pact - May 19, 2025, 12:35 am

(May 19, 2025 12:28 AM)Rust-0l3um Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Throwing crayons is generally not considered a danger to someones life. Unless your in California, according to them everything causes cancer....

When my older son was three they were playing at shooting one of the preschool teachers and she was lying down and then she said "Tidy up time" and he hated tidy up time so he threw a block hit it right in the center of her forehead and the blood came gushing out and she had to have stiches. Of course he didn't mean to do that or know that it would cause that he just felt frustrated because he was having fun and he HATED tidy up time. [I remember hating it too.] He was quite traumatised by it. The school was kind and always called it "Rebecca's accident" It was only 2 and half hours a day preschool I did stay at home with him.

Pr0m3th3us - May 19, 2025, 1:51 am

(May 19, 2025 12:35 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) When my older son was three they were playing at shooting one of the preschool teachers and she was lying down and then she said "Tidy up time" and he hated tidy up time so he threw a block hit it right in the center of her forehead and the blood came gushing out and she had to have stiches. Of course he didn't mean to do that or know that it would cause that he just felt frustrated because he was having fun and he HATED tidy up time. [I remember hating it too.] He was quite traumatised by it. The school was kind and always called it "Rebecca's accident" It was only 2 and half hours a day preschool I did stay at home with him.

He was traumatized??? Rofl ok you're insane. What about her and her medial bills, time missed from work? Not to mention the scar on her face. I would have sued for damages and had him hauled off for juvenile crimes ? you people think it's all about you and your "poor" kid, grow up.

The Pact - May 19, 2025, 5:10 am

(May 19, 2025 01:51 AM)Rust-0l3um Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He was traumatized??? Rofl ok you're insane. What about her and her medial bills, time missed from work? Not to mention the scar on her face. I would have sued for damages and had him hauled off for juvenile crimes ? you people think it's all about you and your "poor" kid, grow up.

He was three years old. ?I wasn't saying it was anyone's fault that he was traumatised. But imagine being three and this accidently happened when you threw a block because you didn't understand the consequences, and you actually loved all three of your teachers.

I mean yes I felt very bad for her and shocked and horrified, but everyone was extremely nice about it and very sweet of them they did everything to try and hide how it happened, so that no one would talk nasty about him, so it's mostly a heart warming story. Took a few weeks and then finally you wouldn't know it happened to look at her.

Oh also we are in a country that doesn't put people through hell with medical bills we have socialised health care especially when it comes to accidents. It cost her NOTHING. Not a cent.

I'll save you your next post....."It cost tax payers. Boohoo."

plops - May 19, 2025, 6:28 pm

(May 18, 2025 06:43 PM)ariluvs Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) i dont understand, why watch after kids with autism if u cant handle the autism ??

(May 19, 2025 12:28 AM)Rust-0l3um Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Throwing crayons is generally not considered a danger to someones life. Unless your in California, according to them everything causes cancer....

(May 19, 2025 05:10 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He was three years old. ?I wasn't saying it was anyone's fault that he was traumatised. But imagine being three and this accidently happened when you threw a block because you didn't understand the consequences, and you actually loved all three of your teachers.

I mean yes I felt very bad for her and shocked and horrified, but everyone was extremely nice about it and very sweet of them they did everything to try and hide how it happened, so that no one would talk nasty about him, so it's mostly a heart warming story. Took a few weeks and then finally you wouldn't know it happened to look at her.

Oh also we are in a country that doesn't put people through hell with medical bills we have socialised health care especially when it comes to accidents. It cost her NOTHING. Not a cent.

I'll save you your next post....."It cost tax payers. Boohoo."

If any of my boys (at 3 years old) threw a block so hard at me I needed stitches it would be serious problem. I am glad we are past that age and a few other solutions fix that problem now. But dude, that's arm power and a temper problem at 3. Not a joking matter imo. Free healthcare or not.

Anyways, I get the teachers sentiment, not justifying the aggression, especially if the kids has a specialist around. Sounds like he is coddled and not really given hard discipline. Had to learn that with one of my boys as well.

Pr0m3th3us - May 19, 2025, 8:04 pm

(May 19, 2025 05:10 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He was three years old. ?I wasn't saying it was anyone's fault that he was traumatised. But imagine being three and this accidentally happened when you threw a block because you didn't understand the consequences, and you actually loved all three of your teachers.

I mean yes I felt very bad for her and shocked and horrified, but everyone was extremely nice about it and very sweet of them they did everything to try and hide how it happened, so that no one would talk nasty about him, so it's mostly a heart warming story. Took a few weeks and then finally you wouldn't know it happened to look at her.

Oh also we are in a country that doesn't put people through hell with medical bills we have socialised health care especially when it comes to accidents. It cost her NOTHING. Not a cent.

I'll save you your next post....."It cost tax payers. Boohoo."

A HEARTWARMING STORY??? WHAT IN THE ACTUAL FUCK ARE YOU ON???!!??? That is crazy, your dilutional. Nobody should hide that, that's partially how kids grow up to be serial killers FFS. 3 year olds shouldn't be committing violent acts like that.

Im all for free healthcare actually, i hate big pharma. Healthcare is BIG business in the US and they have ALOT of pull politically and what not. I think its complete BS.

Phantom_NiNja - May 19, 2025, 11:59 pm

(May 6, 2025 03:33 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Or the nanny that killed two kids because when she asked for extra money her boss offered housework for extra earning instead of just a raise. Or that man that tossed a 5 year old he didn't know off a balcony at Mall of a America just to try and kill someone. The kid lived.

oh , I remember that Mall of America don't know how many stories that kid fell but remember everyone on the main floor the security rush to the kid and he was ok but he had injuries and had to go to the hospital. He said he did it to know how it feels to kill someone. He' insane.

The Pact - May 20, 2025, 2:10 am

(May 19, 2025 08:04 PM)Rust-0l3um Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) A HEARTWARMING STORY??? WHAT IN THE ACTUAL FUCK ARE YOU ON???!!??? That is crazy, your dilutional. Nobody should hide that, that's partially how kids grow up to be serial killers FFS. 3 year olds shouldn't be committing violent acts like that.

Im all for free healthcare actually, i hate big pharma. Healthcare is BIG business in the US and they have ALOT of pull politically and what not. I think its complete BS.

Quote:If any of my boys (at 3 years old) threw a block so hard at me I needed stitches it would be serious problem. I am glad we are past that age and a few other solutions fix that problem now. But dude, that's arm power and a temper problem at 3. Not a joking matter imo. Free healthcare or not.

Anyways, I get the teachers sentiment, not justifying the aggression, especially if the kids has a specialist around. Sounds like he is coddled and not really given hard discipline. Had to learn that with one of my boys as well.

He didn't deliberately throw a block at her. He just tossed a block that would never have hit her in the head except she happened to be lying down and suddenly sat up just when he just tossed a block in the air at the words "tidy up time". So her head wouldn't have been at three year old level if she hadn't been lying down ironically playing dead at other boys who'd been shooting at her using blocks as play guns. And she brought her head up suddenly just as he tossed it. It was a freak accident. There aren't ANY other incidents like that that ever happened in his life, he was always a very gentle type of boy, and he's much much older now. lol

I meant it was heartwarming that they were so nice about it. It was so surprising and shocking that that any of that happened. She knew he hadn't aimed the block at her.

I suppose you guys would call the baby whose head suddenly came up when a two year old was hugging her and the two year old ended up with a bleeding jaw from the sudden head butt movement. I suppose you think the baby is a juvenile delinquent. That happened when I was relieving at a preschool one time.

(May 19, 2025 08:04 PM)Rust-0l3um Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Im all for free healthcare actually, i hate big pharma. Healthcare is BIG business in the US and they have ALOT of pull politically and what not. I think its complete BS.

Yes I feel bad for people in the USA it's like they have to pay for health care three times over.