Hey everyone, if anyone's car has Apple CarPlay built in it, you can easily watch IPTV, Netflix, YouTube, and just about anything you can watch or do on an Android tablet / Android TV box, and it even works with your steering wheel's voice command button, touchscreen, and dash controls! I find it to be the ultimate flex but don't watch TV and drive ;). I mean the news is ok because 90% of it is listening in my opinion, just don't be stupid haha!

Setup is pretty straight forward, because Android is open source there are loads of these boxes on the market, but they're not all compatible with every vehicle. I got the Magic Box 3.0 and no complaints other than it running on Android 10.0. Have any of y'all experimented with these Android boxes for CarPlay and if so which ones do you prefer and what other uses do you see for this aside from TV / Waze? It can run any Android app so possibilities are endless!

These boxes are also very straight forward to use and require no modifications which is cool! It's like they left that loophole open on purpose!
