Thread: Has anyone won a 'Lottery' with just 1 ticket?

Rsynced - May 10, 2025, 10:31 am

Just wondering if anyone has ever won a bytes lottery after only purchasing 1 ticket?

I am under the impression that whomever purchases to most tickets seems to always win.

Yeah man, it's definitely worth trying. While buying more slots increases your odds of winning, it doesn't guarantee the win. It's the luck of the draw. That's why I try and participate in all of them, and I rarely ever buy a lot of tickets.

That isn't always true. However, the one that buys the most has better odds in the sense of coverage.

best analogy is if you're at a baseball game and If you buy one lottery ticket and the pitcher throws that ball and the batter hits it but it falls into your field. You only have one play to run after it and try to catch it.

If you buy 100 tickets it's like having 100 people in the field making an attempt to catch the ball.

The odds are better in the sense of coverage but each player if you talk about the actual odds is the same regardless if you get one ticket or 100 tickets.

However, from experience I have seen the people that buy the most tickets normally wins it.

Thanks for all the feedback everyone. I hope more people choose to play the lottery given this information.

You need big lucky, bro. But, why not!

As math possibility, more you bought, more you got the chances.
