Must have been pretty difficult for CNN to write this article about how prices have been going down and inflation had its lowest annual rate since February 2021.

Inflation has slowed, this is just an undeniable fact.

But unfortunately at least in my area I am not seeing any signs of lower consumer/food prices even on American made products which just shows corporate greed.

I could have said I banged ur mom, that would've been false and COD relevant.

I'm serious though, your reply (that I initially replied to) had a child's mindset with no thought about the past progression(or regression) and the future.

I stated current facts and personal observations.

How you cannot comprehend that is honestly ridiculous, but considering every time I replied to you on this forum you spew nonsense and lack basic understanding so I am not surprised.
