

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: How to deal with emotional situation like this?

JNath - May 25, 2025, 8:13 am

Hello hf, I hope everybody's doing great. So I'm kinda sad and feeling low today as someone whom I call friends called me today telling me how big they are doing in their life and telling me how worthless I am. These friends of mine started a business in education sector two years ago and made close to 1 million USD so they think themselves of as they are above the world.

He said I've become worthless that I'm not doing anything big and I smoked few cigarettes now to cope up with how they made me feel. Guys what should I do in this situation? I'm thinking of fucking doing something and making more money than them and show them who's the boss but it's gonna be hard.

Crystal Lord - May 25, 2025, 8:23 am

I was also feeling down since yesterday but im chillin out all the time by doing things i love and working on stuff that will bring me success in the future, dont need to be low everything will be fine :D

diablospartan - May 25, 2025, 8:30 am

My man i would give you a good advice

This your so called "friends" are shit people and even if they make 1 milion usd having such character doesnt count a shit

Try and cut any comunication with them and dont try to take revenge or make a lot of money just to take a revenge on them ,work to make a lot of money only you became happy ,you want for yourself etc

Trust me the biggest revenge on life its indifference ,and total cutting game like cutting a woman on your life

If those people try to contact you tell them you dont want to have anything to them as you dont like thys type of people and cut them definitely

And dont be sad that they make more money than you ,some people are in a lot of s--t even without a lot of money

Money- - May 25, 2025, 8:36 am

I will make you money my bro. My name is Money after all. Come to me bro, I will show you the way.

Astonished - May 25, 2025, 9:33 am

(May 25, 2025 08:13 AM)Cypress.io Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He said I've become worthless that I'm not doing anything big and I smoked few cigarettes now to cope up with how they made me feel. Guys what should I do in this situation? I'm thinking of fucking doing something and making more money than them and show them who's the boss but it's gonna be hard.

In all honesty people don't just randomly do this, so they're not and were not your friend/s, but I feel like we're missing a piece of story here.

Secondly, contrary to what others may think you're shooting yourself in the foot with the idea of "making more money than them", that shouldn't be your goal, you will slack behind spending too much time thinking about their success rather than your own. Focus on making money for yourself and not to please others nor be idolised by others. That's the completely wrong approach. Do it for you.

Motusora - May 25, 2025, 9:54 am they might be doing that to motivate you , sometimes we misunderstand what other people trying to say.

what are the exact words they said ?

Oumuamuaiswatching - May 25, 2025, 11:42 am

(May 25, 2025 08:13 AM)Cypress.io Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hello hf, I hope everybody's doing great. So I'm kinda sad and feeling low today as someone whom I call friends called me today telling me how big they are doing in their life and telling me how worthless I am. These friends of mine started a business in education sector two years ago and made close to 1 million USD so they think themselves of as they are above the world.

He said I've become worthless that I'm not doing anything big and I smoked few cigarettes now to cope up with how they made me feel. Guys what should I do in this situation? I'm thinking of fucking doing something and making more money than them and show them who's the boss but it's gonna be hard.

You won't be doing big things if the only reason is to have a revenge, instead use your bad energy for inspiration, find something you love doing, enjoy the journey and go all the way. Don't show them, forget about them, you are not them, there will always be people who are trying to suck all the energy from you, know that. You live for yourself and maybe for your family. Do things that make you feel good and present, that's the way of success.

(May 25, 2025 11:42 AM)Oumuamuaiswatching Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You won't be doing big things if the only reason is to have a revenge, instead use your bad energy for inspiration, find something you love doing, enjoy the journey and go all the way. Don't show them, forget about them, you are not them, there will always be people who are trying to suck all the energy from you, know that. You live for yourself and maybe for your family. Do things that make you feel good and present, that's the way of success.

They call me Master of typos

Smexy - May 25, 2025, 2:06 pm

Stop letting others put you down like that.

Not everyone has the same goals.

I would let them know my boundaries.

Phantom_NiNja - May 25, 2025, 8:34 pm

(May 25, 2025 08:13 AM)Cypress.io Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hello hf, I hope everybody's doing great. So I'm kinda sad and feeling low today as someone whom I call friends called me today telling me how big they are doing in their life and telling me how worthless I am. These friends of mine started a business in education sector two years ago and made close to 1 million USD so they think themselves of as they are above the world.

He said I've become worthless that I'm not doing anything big and I smoked few cigarettes now to cope up with how they made me feel. Guys what should I do in this situation? I'm thinking of fucking doing something and making more money than them and show them who's the boss but it's gonna be hard.

If you want honesty... I would say you should tell them off. Tell them SHOW ME DA MUDDA MONIES!!!

you should have told them off and be like the joke is on you bro. I just started a business and made twice as much as you did in 2 years bro.

???

toayo - May 25, 2025, 10:28 pm

(May 25, 2025 08:13 AM)Cypress.io Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hello hf, I hope everybody's doing great. So I'm kinda sad and feeling low today as someone whom I call friends called me today telling me how big they are doing in their life and telling me how worthless I am. These friends of mine started a business in education sector two years ago and made close to 1 million USD so they think themselves of as they are above the world.

He said I've become worthless that I'm not doing anything big and I smoked few cigarettes now to cope up with how they made me feel. Guys what should I do in this situation? I'm thinking of fucking doing something and making more money than them and show them who's the boss but it's gonna be hard.

show dem whos boss. fuck dem ? note: they arent ur friends at all gang.

TheFr0ntMan - May 26, 2025, 3:43 am

Sometimes the truth hurts but if they are real friends they will encourage you into doing better with your life mate, rather than make you feel like a sh1t

Andy Walker - May 26, 2025, 4:13 am

They were never friends.

It will be hard to accept but you need to move on. As far as showing them who's boss.

Get rich for yourself and your own pleasure, not to prove anything to them. They are never going to give any respect to you nor any love.

You love yourself. You don't need their fake love.

Good luck.

Chrisy - May 26, 2025, 4:16 am

(May 25, 2025 08:36 AM)Money- Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I will make you money my bro. My name is Money after all. Come to me bro, I will show you the way.

I want to come too, I'm in need lol

TheNaturalBoy - May 26, 2025, 10:21 am

Brother, first of all, you don't have to prove anything to anyone. The only person you owe an explanation to is yourself. No matter how many times you're hit by those comments from so-called 'friends' or even family, just ignore all that barking. Usually, these people are just looking for acceptance and validation—they're like spoiled little kids. The best thing you can do is keep following your path, move forward, and don't give up. You have a business in adult content; if that's not making enough, you can look for more opportunities and keep growing. Don't get depressed or let others influence you. Keep pushing ahead—you've got this. Lots of people on this forum believe in you and will support you. I wish you great success :3

toast e - May 26, 2025, 11:57 am

The person who you thought was your 'friend' isn't and shown you clear proof of that. I've had this happen a few times. You have to consider them dead to you and just move on. Someone like that doesn't deserve to be in my (your) thoughts.

sharn - June 13, 2025, 12:38 pm

It sounds like they are not considering your feelings and just trying to make themselves feel better by putting you down.

Do not let their words define your self-worth. Focus on yourself.

abbi052871 - June 13, 2025, 1:26 pm

Everyone does like at a different pace. Just because you are not where your "friend" is, doesn't make it right for them to talk down to you. One thing...once you do make it big, stay humble! The world doesn't need any more ugly!

p4cket - June 14, 2025, 7:16 pm

(May 25, 2025 08:13 AM)Cypress.io Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hello hf, I hope everybody's doing great. So I'm kinda sad and feeling low today as someone whom I call friends called me today telling me how big they are doing in their life and telling me how worthless I am. These friends of mine started a business in education sector two years ago and made close to 1 million USD so they think themselves of as they are above the world.

He said I've become worthless that I'm not doing anything big and I smoked few cigarettes now to cope up with how they made me feel. Guys what should I do in this situation? I'm thinking of fucking doing something and making more money than them and show them who's the boss but it's gonna be hard.

A lot of this is projection. Your mind is perceiving their success as your lack of worth, it's doubtful they called you just to tell you how horrible you are. Making your first million is quite hard, you should be proud of them, and see what you can learn from them rather than contempt them and hate yourself for it.