Thread: Access android camera

Anyone know how I can remotely access an Android camera 24/7 front and back with audio? I have access to the phone as well it's one of my old phones, I need it to run in the background like a spycam where the user won't notice anything

Do this on your own phone? Geez, look around. I doubt that you'll get multi-camera streaming from a phone, though. <https://www.androidauthority.com/best-home-security-apps-android-842997/>

Just be aware of local laws. Wouldn't want you to wind up in the news for planting a spycam.

Haha lol, it's actually to keep track of my kid, I tried apps like AirDroid and FlashGet but it's too expensive. Do these work like those apps where it's hidden and in stealth sort of mode?

wiyth 888rat the 1.3.0 one you can do that and also enable motion detection and even ai face tracking and get email with photos when it detect something. i use it as security system, no one expect a tv, a old smashed tabled or a phone standing on a table to record you, haha

I literally can't think of anything that I would want less in a RAT than AI face tracking. It also costs way more than any mentioned option.
