Thread: AI memes getting annoying?

Jimmie - June 11, 2025, 10:13 am

Almost every day I see multiple post basically a little AI generated meme tagging a known member in the subject (who he probably doesn't even know) like what is the point of this? And it's the same guy doing it farming quick love most likely @Rsynced. All I see when I open these threads is people spamming the lounge and other sections with a 20 second low quality post it's like a two year old who found out you can generate images with AI.

I also found that hilarious.

And those AI-generated images.. LQ AF.

He claimed he spent hours making them, and I'm just sitting here like, who in their right mind would waste hours creating that kinda garbage for no reason?

You can generate those images in seconds.. he also deletes them if they don't get any attention at this point it's pure spam.

I've seen him post a few. It's not yet annoyed me.

Honestly, props to the staff for shuffling his threads over to the AI section.

That's the natural habitat for that kind of content.. fits like a glove.

See, Rsynced, people think that you're spamming the forums with trash.

To be fair when Rsynced responds to threads he doesn't read past the title, genuinely think he has a mental deficiency. Hes his own AI model with a context window of 35 chars.
