Thread: What is your favorite season and what do you love about it?

sharn - June 13, 2025, 12:28 pm

Summer is definitely my favorite season.

I enjoy the extended daylight, warm temperatures and the chance to be outside, whether it is at the beach or hanging out with friends at a BBQ.

Which season do you enjoy most and what makes it special for you?

Rsynced - June 13, 2025, 1:03 pm

I love summer and spring, it gets so cold and wet here during the fall. ?

Flan. - June 13, 2025, 1:06 pm

Fuck Winter, gimme some sun.

abbi052871 - June 13, 2025, 2:07 pm

Spring is my favorite season. All of the trees and flowers grow new and the air is so fresh...until my allergies kick in. LOL padrino - June 13, 2025, 2:18 pm

Fall for sure. I love the darker evenings, cosy nights, and changing leaves. Nothing better!

I like the Summer but if I had to pick one season out of all of them to be my fav it would be fall.

The reason for Fall where I live we call it indian summer where the first part of Fall is warm and hot.

the other have gets cold. Every year this changes sometimes we get snow in the later half of fall and sometimes we don't.

I like it because the trees turn colors and you have this weird smell from dead leaves. It becomes beautifully haunted looking.

We get that fog going. I just think During this time I like to drink a pumpkin spice coffee. I love drinking coffee or black tea.

during that time of year. Then go out for a walk around town looking at the leaves.

I thought about season. I thought about moving but the more I thought about it. I hate winter because it's cold and depressing.

However, places that have no season meaning it's hot or warm all year round at first sounded like the best place to live until I talked to people from such places and they told me it gets boring and depressing. They love places like where I live because the seasons change.

I really do like all seasons. It's just I don't like winter when you have to work and you're forced to drive thru slippery conditions and a blizzard and your car stalls or won't start. There's a lot of issues in the winter that come with living in cold regions. If I had a lot of money and make those issues a thing of the past. I would love all seasons. It's just the winter is least liked because of the crap of issues you have to deal with. You can't just hop in your car and drive to work. It won't happen all the time there's always some kind of issues that happens in the winter.

I enjoy the winter when there's blizzard and you get to stay home and just watch the snow fall. It makes the city look pretty. I love staying up late to watch the snow plows our street.

So, in a way I like I like all seasons when you're in a position where money isn't an issue and you can easily hire someone to deal with the problems. Other than that if I had to pick one season it's fall and it's because it's spooky looking but beautiful in a way. You got the trees turning orange and you got some haunting looking fog. Then you get the horror films and ghost stories always be in full swing.

I guess this preference depends on where you live right?

where I live the fall there's rain but it's mostly half of the season here is hot and warm. the other half once you get to the end of October and November it gets cold. Sometimes we have light snow showers. Other times it's just dry but we do get spooky fog the fog that forms right above the grass or the floor.

We have had even thick dense fog too.

I prefer fall over spring because over here it used to be the first half cold and then the 2nd half is warm.

However, in the past 5 years for some reason it's been cold the whole spring season. It would be rainy and wet.

You get dead looking trees that will start to bud out. For where I live the fall season is the only season that has the most visual appearance.

Winter, frick this dang heat

?inimalist - June 13, 2025, 4:17 pm

Three years ago, I was seriously thinking about moving to Asia (Thailand, Indonesia, Bali, Philippines, Vietnam) because of the warm, summer-like weather. I work remotely, so I can live and work anywhere in the world. Winter sucks, cold sucks, snow sucks. I could live near the beach for the rest of my life.

ps: I didn't move anywhere cause I found my wife ? . Maybe I will go on a honeymoon ?

Winter. I'm not sure why, but there's something comforting about the short, dark days and the cold, rainy weather. Perhaps it's the coziness, the opportunity for reflection, or the sense of escape from societal pressures.

I'd probably have to say either spring or summer, because that's when we start getting thunderstorms and my partner and I love to chase them.

BetrayedSlayer - June 14, 2025, 8:00 pm

100% fall. Perfect blend of weather. Not too hot, not too cold, just right. Even the smell of fall gets me off.

Spaced - June 14, 2025, 8:41 pm

This is always such a hard one to answer because each one has useful benefits. I used to prefer winter but only when it was that crisp dry cold weather... not this monsoon wetness that we seem to get now. So for that reason, I'm going to settle with Summer.

Blazin - June 14, 2025, 9:50 pm

Summer for me as well and fall comes pretty close.

Lefty - June 15, 2025, 4:43 am

Autumn strangely. I just love the leaves aha, except raking them. not fun boomboomalluhakbar - June 20, 2025, 4:49 am summer ofc i think its everyones faviourite

Joel - June 20, 2025, 11:49 am

Winter because it means all the time I spend inside is justified, and I can sleep at night comfortably instead of slowly baking to death.

SIM-5615252 - June 20, 2025, 6:18 pm

I love winter, I love being cozy in my sweater and being able to drink hot tea without sweating

TKMiln3357 - July 1, 2025, 4:57 pm

Fall, it's the perfect temperature weather

diablospartan - July 1, 2025, 6:52 pm

My favourite one its autum as either not too hot but also not too cold

ItsMeFox - July 2, 2025, 5:20 am

Winter is coming!
i love winter

ariluvs - July 2, 2025, 7:18 pm

summer, best season to go swimming!

VidurrE - July 4, 2025, 1:42 am

Winter, I'm a hockey playin, ice fishing, snowmobile'n northerner

K4RM4 - August 17, 2025, 6:34 pm

I love fall. From the smell in the air, to all the beauty of Mother Nature. Plus hunting season come in, in September.
