I would like to understand the general concepts behind C language and how to oversee, for example, website functionality, payments (Crypto + FIAT) and security.

Is there any good guides on where to start?

Any help is much appreciated

Assuming you don't know anything yet I would say start with the basics, always start with the basics.

Thanks for such a quick reply, I am looking for anonymity tips and how to have a 'hidden online presence'.

I have read a few things about burner emails, monero, proton, vpns but there's so much information and am unsure about how anonymous this stuff all really is.

What happened to "understanding the general concepts behind C language"
Already gave up? You're looking for Opsec btw. Go see the Opsec section here.
